INTRODUCTION.

INTRODUCTION.

§ I. The Rolls of the Curia Regis, or the King's Court held before his Justices or Justiciars, during the reigns of King Richard I. and King John, and here published for the first time in an entire form, are the earliest consecutive judicial records now existing. At least, after endeavouring to ascertain the fact, by consulting the best authorities, I have not been enabled to discover any other specimens bearing an anterior date.

It is true, that many detached muniments relating to judicial proceedings — narratives of placita — suits before various judges and tribunals — and other legal memorials of more remote periods — are extant: but none, which, like the present, constitute a continuous roll or register. The most antient documents of this description known in the continental archives, belong to the Parliaments of Paris, being the "Olim" Registers as they are called, commencing in the year 1254, the twenty-eighth year of Saint Louis; whereas we possess the Rolls of the Curia Regis from the Quinzaine of St. Michael, in the sixth year of the reign of Richard Cœur de Lion, 1194, or soon after his return from the Holy Land.

§ II. With these rolls, the series deposited in the Treasury of the Exchequer begins. Yet the usage of preserving a regular written record of judicial proceedings, was certainly practised in England during the preceding reign. The roll of Michaelmas Term, 9 John, contains a short transcript of certain pleadings, 7 Henry II., proving that the mode of enrolment was then entirely settled. I have not discovered any other traces of those rolls. They are not noticed in any of our repertories or calendars. Perhaps, when it was declared that legal memory extended not beyond the first year of Richard's reign, the earlier judicial records, deprived of their practical utility, were cast aside and neglected, and ultimately destroyed, either by neglect or design.

Rotulus de Termino S'c'i Michaelis, 9 Joh. m. 8. (A. I. 40.)

§ III. Much as the loss of these documents may be regretted,—for no other source can supply the information which they would have afforded concerning individual transactions,—still we have no reason to suppose that they disclosed any principles of law beyond those established by the surviving records. The main outlines of that peculiar and national system, the English Common Law, were fully fixed and drawn. Our jurisprudence had assumed all those characteristicks, through and by which, greatly as they have been altered from age to age, it is distinguished at the present day. Beginning with Glanville; — continuing our inquiries upon the Rolls, existing from the reign of John in regular succession; — comparing these records with the commentary furnished by the Year Books; — and lastly, opening the Volumes of the Reporters, properly so called: we could — if human life were adequate to such a task — exhibit what the world cannot elsewhere shew, the judicial system of a great and powerful nation, running parallel in developement with the social advancement of the people whom that system ruled. In the history of the English Constitution, our legal records are amongst the most important elements. The law restrained the Sovereign before he was controlled by his Great Council. And the most important functions antiently vested in the High Court of Parliament, arose from the dispensation of justice, exercised in ordinary cases by the Judges to whom the King delegated his authority and power.

§ IV. But the interest of our judicial records is not local, or peculiarly appertaining unto this our country. They are the property, not merely of England, but of the English people, wheresoever settled or dispersed. We have here the germ and foundation of the laws obtaining in those States, which, rising beyond the ocean, seem appointed to preserve the language and the institutions of England beneath other skies, when the empire of the parent commonwealth shall have passed away like a dream.

Nor will these muniments be without great value in the estimation of those able and learned men, who, amongst foreign nations, and more particularly the Germans, are applying themselves to the study and discussion of jurisprudence with a laborious research into historical facts, and an enlightened pursuit of legal science, which may at once excite our national emulation and check our national pride. For, in England, no branch of study, no pursuit, receives so little elegance from the acquirements of literature, or the investigations of philosophy, as the law. Its professional members are distinguished for their knowledge and their talent, but they labour to cultivate and adorn every field except their own.—And while we thus reject the embellishment derived from human intellect, our practical Legislators have never yet sufficiently recognized the truth, that the positive laws of man can stand upon no other sure foundation but those immutable principles, which ought to be as much the rule of conduct for communities, as for the individuals of whom they are composed.

§ V. The character in which these records are entered is cursive, and often very illegible, perplexed, and obscure, and the writing being also much faded, they cannot be deciphered without difficulty. The entries are frequently irregular and confused, bearing the evident tokens of haste and interruption. Many clerical errors are discernible, especially in the names of persons and places. In coeval charters and chirographs of concords, documents which were written carefully and leisurely, the character is set, regular, and firm; and the comparison between these classes of muniments and the judicial Rolls, will lead to the conclusion, that the latter were written whilst the Court was actually sitting. (Note A.)

In a subsequent age of our legal history, it would seem that the roll was carefully and leisurely engrossed by the clerk, from the notes taken in court of the oral pleadings. In London, a curious vestige of the antient custom may be found in the civic Courts, in which there are no paper pleadings, but the declaration, the plea, and other entries, are engrossed at once upon the parchment by the attorneys, (who in fact are the Clerks of the Court) in the same manner as they would have done, had the suit been followed and defended according to the antient mode.

§ VI. Upon a cursory perusal of the Rolls, two points will present themselves prominently to the reader's attention.

The first, is the great quantity of business transacted before the Justiciars. And when we recollect the heavy expence, which, even at this period, was attendant upon legal proceedings, and the difficulties of communication between the remote parts of the kingdom and the central tribunal, it must appear evident that so many causes would not have been prosecuted in the King's Court, had not some very decided advantages been derived from this course.

The second point is, the smallness, in many cases, of the matter in dispute, the suits being frequently brought for very inconsiderable portions of land. It is probable, however, that the "acra" originally contained one hundred and twenty of the measures usually so called, especially when the land was situated in the western Shires of England: or that the term acre was equivalent to "carrucate." It is possible also that the common rights, appurtenant to small pieces of land held in severalty, may have been much more valuable than the land itself, and were the substantive objects of litigation.

The spirit and principles of our antient jurisprudence offer a wide and interesting field for enquiry: some remarks and hints upon these subjects, as well as upon the affinity between the Norman customs and the laws of Anglo-Norman England, may perhaps be introduced hereafter. In the present essay, I shall confine myself to the observations suggested by a very few of the more remarkable passages appearing on the record.

§ VII. Such are the entries relating to the appeal of treason, brought by William Fitz Osbert against Richard his brother. Rot. Cur. Regis, vol. i. 69, 95. B. Abbas, 595. Hoveden, 668.

William Fitz Osbert, the Appellant, had accompanied Cœur de Lion to Palestine. We learn the fact from the narrative of a vision, relating how Thomas a Becket had appeared to Fitz Osbert, and to Geoffry, a Citizen and Goldsmith of London, both embarked upon the vessel which had sailed from the port of that city. The vision itself, has little, if any, bearing upon the general history of the reign, and it is just such an incident as we might be inclined to neglect or expunge as an idle tale. But the legend affords a curious proof how useful the slightest notices relating to individuals may be, in completing the chain of historical evidence; and that matters, appearing at first sight without any specific application to authentic history, may nevertheless confirm the testimony afforded by the more trust-worthy portions of the chronicler. By this transient glimpse of Fitz Osbert in the character of a Crusader, we can trace the source of that intimacy with King Richard, which afterwards enabled him to take a most influential station in the civic community.

endeavoured to give importance to his looks by nourishing the growth of beard, which he deemed would render him more notable in the crowd and the Folkmoot; and hence, Wyllyam with-the-longe-berde, derived his common name. Others say, that he and his kinsmen had adhered to this antient English fashion as a testimony of their hatred against their Norman masters. And at all events, it is sufficiently easy to understand the object sought by this affectation of singularity.

Great and frequent were the talliages imposed upon the City of London, for Richard's ransom: and the burthen, according to the popular opinion, was increased, by the inequality of its apportionment or repartition. London at this period, contained two distinct orders of citizens: the Aldermen, the "Majores" or "Nobiles," as they are termed in the antient Year Books of the City, the Patricians or higher order, constituting (as they asserted) the municipal Communia, and constantly exercising the powers of government. To these, were opposed the lower order, who — perhaps being subdivided amongst themselves into two tribes of plebeians — maintained that they were the true Communia, to which, as of right, the municipal authority ought to belong. And in these conflicting ranks, an historical theorist may suppose that he discovers the vestiges of the remote period, when London was inhabited by distinct races or nations, each dwelling in their own peculiar town — the Ealdormanna-byrig, still known as the Aldermanbury — inhabited by the nobles or conquering caste: whilst the rest of the city was peopled by the tributary or subject community.—But, abandoning these speculations, and reverting to the plain story of the chroniclers, it appears that whatever may have been the right of the superior classes, they failed to exercise their jurisdiction discreetly. And when the Aldermen assembled, according to usage, in full Husting, for the purpose of assessing the taxes, the rulers endeavoured to spare their own purses and to levy the whole from the poor.

§ IX. William with the long beard, had an elder brother, Richard Fitz Osbert. To this relative he had been indebted for support when young, and whilst pursuing his studies. Extravagant and profuse in more advanced age, William attempted to encroach upon Richard's bounty, and strove to obtain by threats, the relief which had been denied to his solicitations. He now sought the blood of this near kinsman, persecuting him to the death with the most virulent hostility.

Longbeard repaired to Cœur de Lion; and, availing himself of the intimacy which he had acquired, he denounced Richard Fitz Osbert as a traitor, a conspirator against the life of the King. Such was his devotion towards his Sovereign, he declared, that he would not spare his brother at the expence of his allegiance. We are told by Neubrigensis, that the accusation was spurned by the King, and, as this writer conjectures, on account of his horror at such unnatural cruelty. It may be doubted, however, whether Richard, who was himself so devoid of natural affection, could be actuated by such a motive. And the authentic record of the proceeding will enable us to rectify the statements of the chronicler. (Note B.)

21 Nov. 1194. § X. It appears, then, by the entries upon the Roll, that on the Morrow of St. Edmund, in the sixth year of Ric. I., William Fitz Osbert preferred his appeal before the Justices at Westminster against Richard Fitz Osbert, his brother. Speaking as a witness — for every Appellant supported his complaint by his own positive testimony—he affirmed that a meeting was held in the "stone house" of the said (Rot. Cur. Regis, vol. i. 69.)

Richard, when a discussion arose concerning the aids granted to the King for his ransom. Richard Fitz Osbert exclaimed, "In recompense for the money taken from "me by the Chancellor within the Tower "of London, I would lay out forty marks "to purchase a chain in which the King "and his Chancellor might be hanged."— (Note C.) There were others present who heard this speech, Jordan the Tanner and Robert Brand, without doubt the two true men noticed, but not named, by Ralph de Diceto, whose brief account of the transaction agrees, so far as it extends, with the record. And they also vied with Richard Fitz Osbert in his disloyalty. "Would that "the King might always remain where he "now is," quoth Jordan. In this wish Robert Brand cordially agreed. — And,— "Come what will," — they all exclaimed,— "in London we never will have any other "King except our Mayor;" — Henry Fitz Ailwin of London Stone.

The Appellees, in due form, denied the whole accusation "de verbo in verbum," and demanded the franchise of London, or the right possessed by the citizens of defending themselves by compurgation, according to the old Anglo-Saxon laws of their ancestors. Upon this plea, a day was given to them on Sunday next after the feast of St. Katherine, in three weeks, and in the meanwhile they were enlarged, finding pledges for their appearance; amongst whom, scanty as the early memorials of the City are, we recognize many well-known names of citizens and civic families. The cause of the Appellees was therefore defended by the Magnates, to whom William with the long bearde was so much opposed. (Note D.)

21 Dec. 1194. § XI. On Sunday next before Christmas, a further day was given to William Fitz Osbert and the Citizens of London, concerning the allowance of their franchise in respect of the appeal, to wit, on the octaves of St. Hilary, at Westminster. No further information can be derived from the mutilated and imperfect record, but we can ascertain that the facts have been mis-stated by Neubrigensis. The accusation was followed up in due form of law before the Justices at Westminster, and without any reference to the King.

1196. § XII. Defeated as an informer in Court, Fitz Osbert now re-appears in the City as a patriot. Those chroniclers who espouse his cause — and the coeval authorities display, most instructively, all the violent party feelings of the age — maintain, that, Hoveden, 765. M. Paris, 181. Neubrigensis, 561.

moved by an ardent zeal for justice and equity, he acted with specious fidelity as the advocate of the poor. Face to face he opposed the Aldermen, on all occasions: asserting, that by the corruption of the "Nobiles" the King's Exchequer was shamefully defrauded; and labouring to effect an equal and impartial assessment of the citizens according to their means.

For this purpose, he repaired to the King in Normandy, praying "peace for "the citizens and for himself." The request is obscurely expressed, nor are we informed of the answer which he received. but since we do know that Longbeard complained of the extortions committed by the King's ministers or officers, and that upon his return, the Chief Justiciar or Regent, Archbishop Hubert, was moved to exceeding wrath, we may conjecture that the authority of the latter was restricted, or his discretion impugned.

Hubert at once declared himself as the open adversary of William Fitz Osbert in particular, and of the citizens at large. Orders were issued by the Justiciar, that any one of the commonalty found without the walls of the City should be arrested as an enemy to King and Kingdom. Either the franchises of the citizens, or their strength, or perhaps both causes combined, restrained or deterred the Justiciar from attacking them within their own municipal territory. Beyond the city liberties, he did his worst; and, about Mid Lent, several London merchants, attending Stamford Fair, were seized pursuant to his commands.

March 1196.

Fitz Osbert, safe within the walls of London, defied the Justiciar and the Royal authority. We are told by Neubrigensis, that fifty-two thousand citizens were enrolled by name as his adherents or followers, all arrayed against the rich and noble of the City, who were compelled to watch in arms, day and night, for the purpose of protecting their wealth, their honour, and their lives against this confederacy.

§ XIII. Availing himself of the terrors excited amongst the higher orders, and supported, without doubt, by their influence, the Justiciar proceeded to London, and convening the citizens, he induced them to give pledges for the keeping of the peace. William Fitz Osbert was no party to this transaction. He called a folkmoot, as he was wont to do, in St. Paul's Churchyard, and here he addressed a forcible and energetic discourse to the assembled people, inviting them to defend their cause by rallying round him as the Protector of the Poor. But, according to the invariable destiny of party leaders, he began to experience the levity of the multitude: and, either by fear or treachery, the union which had supported him was weakened or dissolved.

§ XIV. Hubert the Justiciar, advising with the "Proceres," summoned Fitz Osbert to appear and answer the accusations now preferred against him. Two of the "noble citizens," or Aldermen, acted as intelligencers, and espying out the ways of the declining demagogue, they ascertained how and in what manner he could be safely and surely apprehended. When, therefore, it appeared that the capture could be effected easily and quietly, an armed band, stationed by the Justiciar under the command of these Citizens, attacked the popular advocate. Force was resisted by force. One of the leaders, Godfrey by name, fell beneath Fitz Osbert's battle-axe, the other met with a similar fate: yet Longbeard found that he had no safety but in flight. He took refuge in the church of St. Mary le Bow: and, having but too good reason for apprehending that the sanctity of the edifice might not be sufficient to defend him against his enemies, he retired to the lofty tower, in which he proposed to resist a siege.—"Come out and abide the law,"—was the summons received by Fitz Osbert, and which he knew he could not dare to obey.

The Archbishop, wholly disregarding the immunities of his peculiar Sanctuary, gave orders, to the great astonishment and marvel of the surrounding crowd, that Fitz Osbert should be expelled by main force. And when it was ascertained that the victim had fled to the tower of the church, the Archbishop directed that the structure should be set on fire. The fierce flames compelled Fitz Osbert to abandon his stronghold: he descended and attempted to escape. As he was rushing out, he was stabbed by the son of the citizen whom he had slain, secured, bound with fetters and manacles, and carried to the Tower of London. The "Majores" of the City and the King's officers, all joined in urging the Justiciar to inflict a condign punishment upon the offender. Fitz Osbert, by advice of the "Proceres" assembled at the Tower, was condemned to die. The sentence was executed with the usual barbarity. Stripped naked, and tied by a rope to the horse's tail, William was dragged over the rough and flinty roads to Tyburn, where his lacerated and almost lifeless carcass was hung in chains on the fatal elm.

In the archives of Guildhall, a single line commemorates the execution of the traitor. The vernacular Chronicle of the City informs us, how the "herętyke called with the Longe berd was drawen and hanged for heresye and cursed doctryne that he had taughte." A confession, said to have been made by him, acknowledging in his name the foulest crimes, was loudly and industriously repeated and reported to the disgrace and contumely of his adherents. They heeded not these accusations. They who had abandoned their advocate when living, lamented and honoured him when dead. It was believed that miracles were worked by the relics of this martyr to the popular cause. Hubert the Justiciar was able to chase away the votaries of Fitz Osbert, and to reduce the citizens to obedience: but the trespass which Hubert the Archbishop had committed against the privileges of the sanctuary, was not forgotten, and ultimately occasioned the loss of (§ XXXVII.) the great secular office which he held.

§ XV. A very remarkable plea relates (Rot. Cur. Regis, vol. i. 3, 66.) to the expulsion of the Monks from the Priory of Coventry.

(13 Oct. 1194. Quinzaine of St. Michael, 6 Ric. I.) Moses, late the Prior of Coventry, and his Convent, pray that they may recover seisin of the Barony of Coventry which they held in the time of Henry II., and after the first Coronation of Ric. I., and from whence they were ejected by force and without judgment, declaring that the Prior had performed homage for the same to the King.

The Canons against whom the suit is brought, allege in their plea that they hold nothing in Barony, nor otherwise than in frankalmoigne: and that if they held of the Barony, the same is in other hands, and not in theirs. And, inasmuch as they only hold in frankalmoigne, they refuse to answer, praying their privilege of Court Christian. Upon this plea, a day is given to the parties to hear judgment at Westminster: and the Canons appoint their attorneys to appear in their stead.

The plea to the jurisdiction was not allowed: and amongst the entries on the Morrow of St. Edmund, is the appearance of the assize, empannelled to try the issue, whether Hugh Bishop of Coventry and the Canons of Coventry, unjustly and without judgment, disseized the Prior and Convent of Coventry of their tenements in Coventry and elsewhere, since the first Coronation of the King.

21 Nov. 1194. Morrow of St. Edmund, 6 Ric. I.

The Canons plead, that when King Henry II. granted the Bishoprick of Coventry to Hugh de Nonant, he also granted to him the priory of Coventry, in the same manner as Bishop Roger Clinton, his predecessor, had enjoyed the same. Now Bishop Roger held the priory in his demesne and Barony, and received the homage of the Freeholders, and provided necessaries for the Monks at his discretion. And the Canons proffer the charter of Hen. II., purporting that the King granted the priory to the Bishop in the above-mentioned manner and form. Before, however, he could obtain seisin thereof, Henry II. died, and he therefore came before King Richard, and prayed his confirmation thereof.

Moses the late Prior, the demandant in the present assize, appeared, as they further allege, before Archbishop Baldwin, the Bishops of London and Rochester, and many other discreet men, as well of the Clergy as of the Laity, at Reading, and surrendered the Priory into the hands of Hugh de Nonant, the Bishop of Coventry. And there, in the presence of them all, Prior Moses abjured the Church of Coventry, and promised that he would never return thereto.

Some time afterwards the Bishop held a Synod in his church of Coventry, when the Monks came forth and struck the Bishop upon his head with a cross, and drew blood. This assault was made known unto the Pope; and by the assent and testimony of the King and the Suffragans of the Church of Canterbury, and the judgment of the Court of Rome, the "religion" or regular community was altogether suppressed. And by the King's assent, the possessions of the Church were distributed or divided into prebends, saving only the entirety of the Barony, which the King granted to Bishop Hugh de Nonant for his life; and thus, by the authority and command of the Pope, addressed to William Longchamp Bishop of Ely, then his Legate — and of whom much more will be said hereafter — the prebends were assigned to the several Canons. (§ xxvi. to § xxxi.) Thereupon they proffer the King's confirmation, and pray that the same may be allowed to them, and they offer to the King six hundred marks, that they may hold the priory, together with the Barony of the same priory, as Prior Moses held the same, and that they may have the King's further confirmation thereupon.

The Prior prays that his Assize of Novel Disseisin may proceed: and he in his turn, proffers the King's charter, in which it is contained that the King granted to the said Prior the entirety of his priory, together with the habit and the order of the Monks, as fully as they ever had the same, and that they should not in anywise be impeded or damnified by the charters which Bishop Hugh had obtained from the King. And to the end that they may have the entirety of their priory, together with the Barony, and the restoration of their order, as the same was granted to them by the King, they also offer to the King six hundred marks of silver.

But now a third party interposes, namely, the Archbishop of Canterbury, who asserts the suit should be decided in Court Christian, as of a church which is vacant, and should be in his custody, the dispute concerning ecclesiastical property. And the Justices demand that the suit may be retained in the King's Court, as being a plea concerning his Barony. And it is therefore adjudged by the Court—consideratum est—that the King's pleasure shall be taken thereupon.

§ XVI. Here the record breaks off, and the plea must be elucidated by the chroniclers.—There prevailed at this period a bitter hostility against the Regular Clergy, and particularly against the Monks who constituted the Chapters of many Cathedrals, including the Primatial See of Canterbury. Monastic or regular Chapters were derived from the Anglo-Saxon Church, and the institution was almost peculiar to England. They were originally introduced into the Cathedrals for the purpose of effecting an ecclesiastical reform. The secular Clerks had so greatly neglected their duties, that there appeared no cure for the evil but the substitution of a priesthood bound by monastic vows. Now, the accusation was retorted: it was alleged that the Monks were equally unfitted for their charge: and the utmost efforts were made to expel them from the Cathedrals, and to introduce secular Canons or Prebendaries in their stead. In addition to all those means which could be considered as lawful, the adversaries of the Monks frequently employed every kind of undue influence, fraud, and violence. Canterbury Cathedral more than once sustained a regular blockade from the forces of the Metropolitan. Pilgrims proceeding to the shrine of St. Thomas were shamefully entreated. And the Monks who fell into the power of their Archbishop were cast into prison, chained, and fettered, even until they were starved by cold and hunger.

the muniments and archives of the Church, rifled and despoiled.

It appears, however, that this warfare was not quite unprovoked: for it was before their expulsion that the assault was committed upon Hugh de Nonant, which is stated in the plea. Giraldus Cambrensis, the solitary partizan of Hugh de Nonant, who alone in the crowd of Chroniclers holds up his hand for the Bishop, tells us, that, proceeding to the Synod, called for the purpose of consecrating the Bishops recently nominated in the Parliament at Pippewell, and held before the Archbishop of Canterbury, he displayed his recent wounds and bruises, demanding justice. An excommunication was launched against the Monks: and, the more effectually to prevail in the common cause, Bishop Hugh proposed that all the other Prelates, who like himself were infested by Regular Chapters, should join with him in raising a fund to defray the expences attending the hostility against the common enemy. Canterbury, Rochester, Winchester, Bath, Worcester, Ely, and Norwich might, as he suggested, contribute two thousand marks amongst them, whilst he for his poor Church of Coventry would give one thousand, making three thousand marks in all.

Agents were forthwith dispatched to Rome, their purses well filled with the means of carrying on the suit, and bearing the letters of the Prelates, which at once declared the misconduct of the Monks, and entreated the Pope to sanction the re-organization of the Cathedral, by the introduction of a secular Chapter. During six months, the Pope suspended the sentence, to the intent that the Monks might, if they pleased, appear and shew cause against it. Their poverty incapacitated them from making their defence, and, as it is said, a sentence was pronounced, by which they were expelled; but it is by no means certain that they were legally abolished or suppressed, as pleaded by the Canons. The hood and the amice replaced frock and cowl. The Canons were installed: and, the better to efface all recollection of the former inmates, Bishop Hugh pulled down the conventual buildings, and rebuilt them upon a new plan, paying the expences with the moveable goods of the late community.

It appears, however, from the pleadings on the roll, that the Monks kept together as a body, notwithstanding their expulsion; nor was any legal objection taken by the Court against their corporate existence. Similar examples may be found in modern times, the Monks of La Trappe and the Nuns of Syon having, though despoiled of their possessions, equally withstood the Revolution of France, and the Reformation of England, preserving their unbroken succession unto the present day. An ecclesiastical corporation may be extirpated by the secular arm, but, according to the doctrines of the Canonists, it can only be legally dissolved by competent ecclesiastical authority.

In whatever manner procured, for it is difficult to collect the real facts of the case, a Papal Bull was subsequently produced, directing and empowering Hubert (Note E.) Archbishop of Canterbury, together with the Bishop of Lincoln and Samson Abbot of Bury, to restore the Monks, and to Jan. 1198. eject the intruding Canons. Acting under this authority, both as Archbishop and as Justiciar, Hubert proceeded to Coventry: and, compelling the Canons to abandon the Cathedral, he restored the Monks to their domicile, in which they continued without further disturbance. Prior Moses, however, was dead, and a successor was therefore appointed in his place, Josbert or Gisbert the Norman, who had already obtained three other priories, Daintree, Wenloc, and Bermondsey, appointments which gratified the avarice of this pluralist, though he had in some measure deserved them by his prudence and discretion.

During their banishment, the number of the Monks had been much diminished by death. And, as well for the purpose of forming an adequate community, as for the res-

In the archives of Guildhall, a single line commemorates the execution of the traitor. The vernacular Chronicle of the City informs us, how the "heretyke called with the Longe berd was drawen and hanged for heresye and cursed doctryne that he had taughte." A confession, said to have been made by him, acknowledging in his name the foulest crimes, was loudly and industriously repeated and reported to the disgrace and contumely of his adherents. They heeded not these accusations. They who had abandoned their advocate when living, lamented and honoured him when dead. It was believed that miracles were worked by the relics of this martyr to the popular cause. Hubert the Justiciar was able to chase away the votaries of Fitz Osbert, and to reduce the citizens to obedience: but the trespass which Hubert the Archbishop had committed against the privileges of the sanctuary, was not forgotten, and ultimately occasioned the loss of the great secular office which he held.

§ XV. A very remarkable plea relates to the expulsion of the Monks from the Priory of Coventry.

13 Oct. 1194. Quinzaine of St. Michael, 6 Ric. I. Moses, late the Prior of Coventry, and his Convent, pray that they may recover seisin of the Barony of Coventry which they held in the time of Henry II., and after the first Coronation of Ric. I., and from whence they were ejected by force and without judgment, declaring that the Prior had performed homage for the same to the King.

The Canons against whom the suit is brought, allege in their plea that they hold nothing in Barony, nor otherwise than in frankalmoigne: and that if they held of the Barony, the same is in other hands, and not in theirs. And, inasmuch as they only hold in frankalmoigne, they refuse to answer, praying their privilege of Court Christian. Upon this plea, a day is given to the parties to hear judgment at Westminster: and the Canons appoint their attorneys to appear in their stead.

The plea to the jurisdiction was not allowed: and amongst the entries on the

21 Nov. 1194. Morrow of St. Edmund, 6 Ric. I.

Morrow of St. Edmund, is the appearance of the assize, empannelled to try the issue, whether Hugh Bishop of Coventry and the Canons of Coventry, unjustly and without judgment, disseized the Prior and Convent of Coventry of their tenements in Coventry and elsewhere, since the first Coronation of the King.

The Canons plead, that when King Henry II. granted the Bishoprick of Coventry to Hugh de Nonant, he also granted to him the priory of Coventry, ir the same manner as Bishop Roger Clin-ton, his predecessor, had enjoyed the same. Now Bishop Roger held the prior in his demesne and Barony, and re-ceived the homage of the Freeholders, anc provided necessaries for the Monks a his discretion. And the Canons proffe the charter of Hen. II., purporting tha the King granted the priory to the Bisho in the above-mentioned manner and form Before, however, he could obtain seisi thereof, Henry II. died, and he therefor came before King Richard, and prayed hi confirmation thereof.

Moses the late Prior, the demandant i the present assize, appeared, as they furthe allege, before Archbishop Baldwin, th Bishops of London and Rochester, an many other discreet men, as well of th Clergy as of the Laity, at Reading, an surrendered the Priory into the hands Hugh de Nonant, the Bishop of Coventr And there, in the presence of them al Prior Moses abjured the Church of Cove try, and promised that he would nev return thereto.

Some time afterwards the Bishop he a Synod in his church of Coventry, whe the Monks came forth and struck tl Bishop upon his head with a cross, ar

drew blood. This assault was made known unto the Pope; and by the assent and testimony of the King and the Suffragans of the Church of Canterbury, and the judgment of the Court of Rome, the "religion" or regular community was altogether suppressed. And by the King's assent, the possessions of the Church were distributed or divided into prebends, saving only the entirety of the Barony, which the King granted to Bishop Hugh de Nonant for his life; and thus, by the authority and command of the Pope, addressed to William Longchamp Bishop of Ely, then his Legate — and of whom much more will be said hereafter — the prebends were assigned to the several Canons. Thereupon they proffer the King's confirmation, and pray that the same may be allowed to them, and they offer to the King six hundred marks, that they may hold the priory, together with the Barony of the same priory, as Prior Moses held the same, and that they may have the King's further confirmation thereupon. (§ xxvi. to § xxxi.)

The Prior prays that his Assize of Novel Disseisin may proceed: and he in his turn, proffers the King's charter, in which it is contained that the King granted to the said Prior the entirety of his priory, together with the habit and the order of the Monks, as fully as they eve had the same, and that they should not i anywise be impeded or damnified by th charters which Bishop Hugh had obtaine from the King. And to the end that the may have the entirety of their priory, toge ther with the Barony, and the restoratio of their order, as the same was grante to them by the King, they also offer t the King six hundred marks of silver.

But now a third party interposes, namel the Archbishop of Canterbury, who assert the suit should be decided in Court Chris tian, as of a church which is vacant, an should be in his custody, the disput concerning ecclesiastical property. An the Justices demand that the suit ma be retained in the King's Court, as being plea concerning his Barony. And it is there fore adjudged by the Court—consideratu est—that the King's pleasure shall b taken thereupon.

§ XVI. Here the record breaks off, an the plea must be elucidated by the chr niclers.—There prevailed at this period bitter hostility against the Regular Clerg and particularly against the Monks wh constituted the Chapters of many Cath drals, including the Primatial See Canterbury. Monastic or regular Chapte were derived from the Anglo-Saxon Church, and the institution was almost peculiar to England. They were originally introduced into the Cathedrals for the purpose of effecting an ecclesiastical reform. The secular Clerks had so greatly neglected their duties, that there appeared no cure for the evil but the substitution of a priesthood bound by monastic vows. Now, the accusation was retorted: it was alleged that the Monks were equally unfitted for their charge: and the utmost efforts were made to expel them from the Cathedrals, and to introduce secular Canons or Prebendaries in their stead. In addition to all those means which could be considered as lawful, the adversaries of the Monks frequently employed every kind of undue influence, fraud, and violence. Canterbury Cathedral more than once sustained a regular blockade from the forces of the Metropolitan. Pilgrims proceeding to the shrine of St. Thomas were shamefully entreated. And the Monks who fell into the power of their Archbishop were cast into prison, chained, and fettered, even until they were starved by cold and hunger.

The majority of the chroniclers being Monks, their accounts cannot be received without qualification: it is evident, however, that the efforts of the secular clerks were not prompted by any sound principle. Although the bright days of Lanfranc and Anselm were passing away, yet it was principally amongst their disciples that any vitality of religion was to be found. And in the personal characters of the ecclesiastics who appeared as the antagonists of Saint Benedict, there was little by which respect could be commanded or confidence inspired.

Hugh de Nonant, Bishop of Coventry and Chester, was amongst the most formidable adversaries of the Regular Clergy. —" Leave the matter to me,"— said he to Richard, — " and in a short time not a " Monk will be remaining in England." The grant and confirmation of Richard I., noticed in the plea of the Canons, had been purchased by the Bishop from the King for Oct. 1189. the sum of three hundred marks. He obtained seisin and possession of the Convent by a forcible ejectment. And an unhappy quarrel between the Prior and the Monks, either instigated or fomented by the Bishop, afforded a plausible pretext for interference, and thus effecting his designs against the community. Attacking the Convent with an armed force, the Prior was driven out by his Pastor, and the Monks who took refuge in their Church were neither protected by their characters nor by their Sanctuary. They were beaten, wounded, maimed, and

the muniments and archives of the Church, rifled and despoiled.

It appears, however, that this warfare was not quite unprovoked: for it was before their expulsion that the assault was committed upon Hugh de Nonant, which is stated in the plea. Giraldus Cambrensis, the solitary partizan of Hugh de Nonant, who alone in the crowd of Chroniclers holds up his hand for the Bishop, tells us, that, proceeding to the Synod, called for the purpose of consecrating the Bishops recently nominated in the Parliament at Pippewell, and held before the Archbishop of Canterbury, he displayed his recent wounds and bruises, demanding justice. An excommunication was launched against the Monks: and, the more effectually to prevail in the common cause, Bishop Hugh proposed that all the other Prelates, who like himself were infested by Regular Chapters, should join with him in raising a fund to defray the expences attending the hostility against the common enemy. Canterbury, Rochester, Winchester, Bath, Worcester, Ely, and Norwich might, as he suggested, contribute two thousand marks amongst them, whilst he for his poor Church of Coventry would give one thousand, making three thousand marks in all.

means of carrying on the suit, and bearing the letters of the Prelates, which at once declared the misconduct of the Monks, and entreated the Pope to sanction the re-organization of the Cathedral, by the introduction of a secular Chapter. During six months, the Pope suspended the sentence, to the intent that the Monks might, if they pleased, appear and shew cause against it. Their poverty incapacitated them from making their defence, and, as it is said, a sentence was pronounced, by which they were expelled; but it is by no means certain that they were legally abolished or suppressed, as pleaded by the Canons. The hood and the amice replaced frock and cowl. The Canons were installed: and, the better to efface all recollection of the former inmates, Bishop Hugh pulled down the conventual buildings, and rebuilt them upon a new plan, paying the expences with the moveable goods of the late community.

It appears, however, from the pleadings on the roll, that the Monks kept together as a body, notwithstanding their expulsion; nor was any legal objection taken by the Court against their corporate existence. Similar examples may be found in modern times, the Monks of La Trappe and the Nuns of Syon having, though despoiled of their possessions, equally withstood the Revolution of France, and the Reformation of England, preserving their unbroken succession unto the present day. An ecclesiastical corporation may be extirpated by the secular arm, but, according to the doctrines of the Canonists, it can only be legally dissolved by competent ecclesiastical authority.

In whatever manner procured, for it is difficult to collect the real facts of the case, a Papal Bull was subsequently produced, directing and empowering Hubert Archbishop of Canterbury, together with the Bishop of Lincoln and Samson Abbot of Bury, to restore the Monks, and to eject the intruding Canons. Acting under this authority, both as Archbishop and as Justiciar, Hubert proceeded to Coventry: and, compelling the Canons to abandon the Cathedral, he restored the Monks to their domicile, in which they continued without further disturbance. Prior Moses, however, was dead, and a successor was therefore appointed in his place, Josbert or Gisbert the Norman, who had already obtained three other priories, Daintree, Wenloc, and Bermondsey, appointments which gratified the avarice of this pluralist, though he had in some measure deserved them by his prudence and discretion.

During their banishment, the number of the Monks had been much diminished by death. And, as well for the purpose of forming an adequate community, as for the restoration of sound discipline, some brethren were introduced from St. Albans, a colonization which occasioned a lasting connection of friendship between the two Houses.

§ XVII. In an assize brought by Alice de Fundenhall against Herbert de Helleveton, concerning the Advowson of the Church of Dunston in the county of Norfolk, and upon which a recognition had been taken before the Justiciars Itinerant, the record of the assize is made by Simon de Pateshall, one of such Justiciars, to the following effect.

Rot. Cur. Regis, vol. i. 37. Bernard in vita Sancti Malachiæ, c. 10. Charters excerpted by Lobineau, Hist. de Bretaigne, ii. 251–253. Ratherii Ep. Dachery, ii. 240. Pasc. Ep. 201. Bloomfield's Norfolk, v. Fox, Acts and Monuments, ii. 484–488. New History of the Anglo-Saxons, 241.

It is declared by the Assize that they have never seen the presentation of any Parson to the Church of Dunston: but the Parsons have always held the same from Parson to Parson, and from father to son, until the death of the last Parson. And they further say, that the Church is founded in the fee which Alice holds of the said Herbert in the Township of Dunston, and that he had nothing in demesne round about such Church. Upon this verdict judgment is given by the Court that Alice should hold in peace: and that the Bishop shall receive her Clerk upon her presentation.

The incumbents of Dunston held the Church by inheritance. The ecclesiastical benefice descended as a military benefice would have done. This custom, by which

Church property was considered as heritable and belonging to particular families, had subsisted of old time. In Ireland the usage was already very antient, and long established before the eleventh century. The Archbishoprick of Armagh, previously to the election of St. Malachi, continued hereditary in one sept during fifteen generations. And so entirely was the archiepiscopal endowment converted into lay fee, that the eight last Bishops had not even received holy orders. Such being the usage with respect to the Primate of the Irish Church, it cannot be doubted but that the inferior members of the hierarchy enjoyed the same privilege. Amongst the Armorican Bretons, an hereditary succession in the Church equally prevailed. Theobald, the son of a Priest, having obtained the Bishoprick of Rennes, married the daughter of the Archdeacon of Nantes. When he grew old, he retired to the Abbey of St. Melanius, and gave the Bishoprick to his son Walter, and Walter in his turn gave it to his son Warine. These are perhaps instances rather of a right of alienation than of inheritance: but Duke Conan expressly attests that a parochial church had been granted by his predecessors, by homage, to married Clerks and their sons, "jure hereditario."

In Italy, during the tenth century, Ratherius Bishop of Verona, after vainly attempting to enforce the rule of celibacy; earnestly exhorted his Clergy that they would at least allow their sons to continue laymen, and marry their daughters unto laymen only — for the Church had become the dowry of the female, who, on espousing a Clerk, received her portion from the possessions of the altar: — so that the evil might not become perpetual.

The efforts of the Prelates, had more immediate effects beyond the Alps, than in England. Pope Pascal, whilst using his utmost endeavours to prohibit the mar-
1107. riage of the Priesthood, was compelled to allow that the sons of the Clergy should be instituted to ecclesiastical benefices. He makes this concession, on account of the great number of individuals thus circumstanced; and the indulgence was not to prejudice the discipline of the Church in future. But the Dunston pleadings show that the reservation was of little effect.

It must be observed that the facts disclosed by the Dunston plea, go much further than the deeds and charters, transcribed by Fox the Martyrologist for the purpose of establishing the position, that Priests with wives continued in England after Anselm. These instruments only prove that the children of Priests had inheritable blood. That such issue should be considered as legitimate, is in conformity to the doctrines of the Church of Rome, the marriage of Clerks being only voidable, and not ipso facto void; whereas the plea shows the ecclesiastical benefice devolving from ancestor to heir. The Clergy of England might therefore, like the Priests of the Greek Church in Russia, have become a sacerdotal tribe or caste, to the incalculable detriment of the country; and this, without doubt, was one of the reasons why their marriage was so strongly opposed. In the course of our Reformation, a reason not entirely dissimilar was strongly urged, though upon one of the most favoured grounds of modern political economy. It was apprehended that if the Clergy were released from the moral restraint of celibacy, their families would multiply so rapidly as to absorb the means of subsistence in the land, and thus starve out the descendants of the lay community.

§ XVIII. In a plea between Nesta or Agnes de Baskerville and Robert de Wastre, the former demands the Castle of Bredewardine as her right and inheritance, of which the defendant deprives her. The Sheriff of Hereford has been commanded to take the Castle into his hands, but he answers that the Castle is out of his bailiwick, and that he dares not intermeddle therewith, the same not being in his power. And William de Braosa says, that neither King, Sheriff, nor Justice have any right to enter into his Liberty; and the plea is respited until the will of the King shall be thereupon known.

The namesake and representative of William de Braosa claimed the like regality in his great Lordship of Gower. When impleaded in Parliament, the latter Willielmus de Braosa alleged that in such Liberty he has his Chancellor and his Chancery, and his Seal in such Chancery; judgment of life and limb; and cognizance of all pleas as well of the Crown as all others, arising in the said lordship, between all persons whomsoever.

30 Ed. I. 1302.

The bold language employed by the elder William de Braosa, may not have extended beyond a legal claim; but in that boldness we find the germ of those dissensions between him and John, which ended in his banishment, and in the cruel death of his wife and child.

§ XIX. John, the son of Richard de Lideford, claims from Richard de Wike two of the Scilly isles, Hagness (now corruptly called Saint Agnes) and Puor or Byer; the first as his right and inheritance, and the second as a pledge or wadset. The suit is terminated by an amicable composition. The Deforciant acknowledges that the demandant shall hold the island of Hagness as his right and inheritance, to him and his heirs, by the service of finding two armed men for the defence of the Castle of Scilly, from the feast of the Invention of the Holy Cross until the Assumption of the Virgin in each year. And the said Richard grants the chase of the island of Puor to the said John and his heirs, and that he may hold the same as his wadset for the term of two years, from Michaelmas, 7 Richard I.; but nevertheless at the rent of ten pounds. This entry is interesting upon many accounts. It affords particulars respecting places whose history is remarkably obscure: and it proves, from the marginal note "Cornubia," that the Scilly islands were then Shire land, and in the body of the county, respecting which point many doubts have been raised.

§ XX. Two Iters were held in the reign of Richard, the first in the sixth, and the latter in the tenth year of his reign. No entire county roll of the Iters of the sixth year is now extant: but Thorne, in his chronicle, inserts an extract from the rolls of that Iter, relating to the judgments or ordeals of fire, water, and duel, in the lands of St. Augustine's Abbey. Of the tenth year, the Rolls for Hertford, Essex, and Middlesex have been preserved. The pleas are stated to have been held at Hertford, at Stortford, and at Clerkenwell, before Geoffry Fitz Peter and his associates. These rolls are amongst the earliest connecting links between the Anglo-Saxon law and the English common law, properly so called. From them, we learn that, in those counties which corresponded with the antient kingdom of Essex, the tything was not a division of territory, but an organization of the inhabitants. The "Decenna," "Decima," or "Frankpledge" answered by its Headborgh; he was the leader and chieftain of the band.

§ XXI. In several Townships, the juries present the names of parties who were found dead in the fields, having been starved by cold or hunger, or otherwise killed by accident, no one being suspected as having caused such death by violence. In all these cases, the judgment is "murder," followed, as is well known, by a fine. Instead of considering the responsibility of the Hundred as merely resulting from the laws made for the security of the Norman or the Dane — though without doubt this object may have been one of the purposes for which the murdrum was enforced — the liability was founded upon a very comprehensive view of police. Since the Hundre was thus subjected to a mulct, if the man died for want of the necessaries of life, may it not be inferred that the inhabitants were bound to provide those necessaries — food and raiment: — and that, consequently, the principle of a legal provision for the poor was recognized by the common law?

§ XXII. Amidst the dry technicality of the record, we may discover various particulars elucidating the state and condition of society. A female, the wife of William le Parmenter, of Westminster, is designated in the same pleadings as Sna-wit or Snow-white, and also as Swan-hilda. Both these names are evidently epithets, derived from the beauty of her complexion, and equivalent to each other. And they also show how purely the common people were still Anglo-Saxons in language and mode of thought: for the expressions thus employed have all the spirit and the form of the poetry of their remote Northern ancestors. But with respect to the upper classes, and those immediately connected with them, we may equally discern the influence of the foreign tongue in other names, no less significant. Trenchevent, who appears in court as the Essoniator of William de Sisseverne, was evidently a messenger distinguished by his swiftness of foot. And the name of Alan

With respect to the condition of the common people, there are some slight yet clear indications, that they were not stinted in their means. Clean sheets were reasonably expected in the cottage of the churl; and the ale-house keeper and the vintner invited the guest in the upland towns.

Eve of St. Andrew, 6 Ric. I.

All the lands of Roger de Mortimer in the County of Norfolk, are seized into the King's hands because he had tourneyed without the King's licence. But Mortimer finds pledges that, before the feast of St. Hilary, he will make his peace, or compound with the King. His pledges are Roger Earl Bigod, Galfridus de Say, and William de Warenna; and the Sheriff is thereupon commanded to let him have his lands again. Tournaments had been strictly prohibited by three general Councils, but Richard found it convenient and practicable to raise money by granting dispensations for violating the precepts of the Church:—one of the numerous proofs that the authority of the Clergy went for nothing, whenever the governing powers chose to combine with the multitude in setting theii doctrines at defiance.

A day is given to Master Radulphu Niger to answer concerning a prebend, i the Cathedral of Lincoln, which had been sworn (or found), by the verdict of a jury, to be in the donation of the King. This Radulphus Niger is probably the chronicler.

Of Constance the Countess of Brittany, and Geoffry her husband, we have several notices. It appears, amongst other matters, that Richard, who had seized her person, also took possession of her lands.

William Fitz Osbert's appeal contains the declaration of Jordan the Tanner and Robert Brand — that they would have no King except the Mayor of London—Henry Fitz Ailwin. The charter of the sixteenth of John, is the first by which the citizens of London are authorized to elect a Mayor; and it has been considered as creating that municipal office. But from these rolls we ascertain that, as is very frequently the case, the charter, purporting to confer a new privilege, is really the confirmation of a pre-existing right: and the grant merely enabled the citizens to make a better title to a privilege which they already enjoyed. Other entries occur respecting the Mayor upon the records, so as to establish the existence of this magistrate both in fact and name. The Mayor of London essoigns himself before the Justices at Hertford by Richard Newman. In an assize concerning a virgate (land in Pertinges in the county of Susse: it was found to be the lay fee of Peter, th son of Henry the Mayor of London, an of Ysabella the wife of the said Pete This last entry is curious, as giving som particulars with respect to Fitz Ailwin family.

It may not be unimportant to add, tha in a grant made by Fitz Ailwin, one (the persons vouched in the attesting claus is Radulphus Brand, probably a kinsman (Robert Brand. And, named in the sam character of witnesses are "Jordanus fili Sperling," and "Jordanus filius Jordani either of whom may be the same individu as Jordan the Tanner. The seal of th document is much defaced, but enough r mains to shew that Fitz Ailwin was repr sented with hawk on fist, in baronial guis And the seal comes in support of the o tradition of London, that the Alderm ranked as Barons. Such tokens of stati were not assumed without due warrant.

Some particulars concerning the top graphy of London may be collected fro the Rolls. Newgate, under the name New-port, was already used as a ga "Old Street without London" then a now still bears in its name the memorial its Roman antiquity.

§ XXIII. Besides the legal and historical knowledge to be derived from these records, they assist the enquirer in localizing the information concerning individuals, and in disclosing many minute particulars concerning entire layers of society, of whom no other memorials are preserved in this compacted and connected form. Not only do we here obtain proofs of alliances and descents of which no other evidence can be found, but we have also, in the different capacities of Jurors, Suitors, Attorneys, Essoniators, and the like, the means of identifying great portions of those persons, who constituted the most efficient portion of the population in each Shire. It will therefore rest with the topographer and the genealogist, to make an adequate use of the records here placed at their disposal.

§ XXIV. A brief view must now be taken of those historical events which are connected with the administration of the law. — At the period when Richard succeeded to the throne, the celebrated Ralph de Glanville filled the high office of "Rector Regni," "Procurator Regni," or "Justiciar." Thus designated, he is enumerated amongst the Barons who assisted at the Coronation of the new Monarch, yet we do not find any notice of his specific appoint-ment by Richard. He continued to hol the station which had been bestowed upo him by Henry II. And from this, as wel as from other similar instances, it does no appear that the delegated authority belong ing to the Justiciar, was determined by th demise of the individual Sovereign fron whom it had been derived.

Glanville had then attained an advance age. According to one contemporary au thority, the Justiciar, sinking under bodil infirmity, and disgusted by the vices of th young Monarch, became anxious to su render up his trust. Glanville, therefor solemnly resigned his office to less con petent successors, and departed, as a Cr sader, to the Holy Land. It is said, that b anxiety and vexation, his intellect becan much enfeebled. And dying shortly afte wards, leaving only female issue, not a individual remained who bore his honour name. Other contemporaries inform that Glanville was deprived of the Justicia ship by the rapacious Monarch, who at t same time removed the Sheriffs and th ministers throughout the Kingdom, ra soming them to the very last farthing; a Glanville himself was cast into prison, un he purchased his enlargement by submitti to a fine of three thousand pounds. T latter account is not destitute of plausibility. Cœur de Lion's avarice was equalled only by his extravagance: and by creating a vacancy in this or any other office, he obtained the means of raising money by its sale.

§ XXV. Richard's Presence Chamber was a market overt, in which all that the King could bestow, all that could be derived from the bounty of the Crown or imparted by the royal prerogative, was disposed of to the best chapman. Hugh Pudsey, the Bishop of Durham, purchased the Earldom of Northumberland, together with the Lordship of Sadbergh. For the Chief Justiciarship he paid, at the same time, the sum of one thousand marks. In the bargain was included a dispensation to the Bishop—or at least such dispensation as the King could grant — from his vow or promise of joining in the Crusade.

These transactions are singularly opposite to our notions; but if we wish to understand the policy of the middle ages, we must recollect that there was a regular and recognized profit arising from judicial and ministerial offices, and the price paid by the functionary was a security, so far as it extended, for his good behaviour. In other words, he bound himself by a penalty for the performance of his duties: because, if deprived in consequence of misconduct, he forfeited his money. The defect of the system did not consist so much in the venality of such offices, as in the arbitrary power of deprival. Had the functionaries been unamoveable, except for due cause, they might have been independent men: and the possible effect of this system may be seen in France under the ancien regime, where the Judges, who sat only by purchase, constituted a bench of singular integrity and honour.

15, 17 Sept. 1189. The appointment was formally announced by the King in the presence of the Great Council held at Pippewell, an assembly appearing to have been in the nature of a Parliament. William de Mandeville, Earl of Albemarle, was included in

Oct. 1189. the commission of Justiciarship. But in the course of the following month, the Earl quitted England and repaired to Normandy, leaving the Bishop in possession of the office; in which, however, he did not long continue undisturbed.

11 Dec. 1189. Previously to Richard's departure from England, he had nominated a new regency, by which Bishop Pudsey's authority was greatly weakened, and his ascendancy destroyed. Several colleagues were assigned to him in his office, or, as their duties are more fully stated, to dispense justice to every claimant, observing therein the laws and lawful customs of England. According to Benedictus Abbas, the additional Justiciars were William de Longchamp Bishop of Ely, Hugh Bardolf, and William Briwere. Hoveden adds other names. These appointments were in contravention of the bargain made with Pudsey; but Richard never scrupled to revoke or annul the grants which he had made. And, although Pudsey was still called Chief Justiciar, Richard had openly placed the whole government in the Bishop of Ely's power.

William Longchamp was of humble origin. "His grandfather," — exclaims Hugh de Nonant, when reviling a political opponent,—"was a serf in the diocese of Beauvais." Longchamp possessed great worldly wisdom and talent for business, and his low birth was, in truth, a proud commendation. It is the more important to advert to such historical facts, because they show the manner, in which the open aristocracy of an established hierarchy, always mitigates the close aristocracy of blood, and participates in the aristocracy of wealth, by creating an easy and accessible path to greatness for the lowest ranks of the community. When the people pillage the altar, they waste their own children's inheritance; they rob themselves; they destroy the most impartially democratic element which any theory of government can afford.

Longchamp, in addition to his office of

Justiciar, held the Chancellorship. One of the seals, the seal appointed to remain in England, was delivered to him for the execution of the King's commands, and he was moreover entrusted with the custody of the Tower of London. For the Chancellorship, he gave the sum of three thousand marks. A competitor, "Reginaldus Italus," offered an additional thousand. But Richard, from his greater trust, as we may suppose, in Longchamp, accepted the lower tender.

In order to maintain a species of balance between the powers of the two jealous Prelates, the custody of Windsor Castle together with the Forest, and also the Shrievalty of the County of Berks, were granted to Bishop Pudsey. This arrangement, however, was better calculated to enable both parties to annoy each other than to promote concord. It was extremely unpleasing to Pudsey: and great dissensions arose between the nominal Chief Justiciar and his colleague, whose views seldom or ever coincided.

Feb. 1190. § XXVI. Richard now prepared himself in earnest for the Crusade, and a Council was held in Normandy, which was attended by Queen Eleanor, John Earl of Moreton his brother, and by various Bishops, who are stated to have crossed the Channel by the King's command. In this assembly Longchamp Bishop of Ely, the Chancellor, was formally appointed Chief Justiciar of England.

Longchamp had gained the entire confidence of the King, who stood by him to the last. Richard wished to exalt him above all competitors. In addition to the two great offices of Chief Justiciar and Chancellor, Longchamp sought the highest ecclesiastical authority. The Archbishopricks were filled; but he despatched his agents to Pope Clement, soliciting the Legation of England. Richard supported the application, and the willing Pontiff granted the boon, extending the legatine province of the Justiciar, not merely to this Kingdom, but to Wales and Ireland, or so much at least of that island as was subject to the English Crown. And about the same time, Richard being then at Bayonne, he issued letters patent, addressed to all his lieges, commanding them to obey the Bishop in all things, even as he the King himself was to be obeyed. This instrument, though dated some months subsequently to Longchamp's appointment, seems in fact to be the patent of the Justiciarship.

Longchamp's character was one of singular activity, which displayed itself in every branch of its administration. We owe the Tower Ditch to the Chief Justiciar:

Richard is said to have satisfied the applicants by giving them such answers as they desired, and which, as we collect from the subsequent transactions, imported that Pudsey should be restored to his former authority. Armed with these letters, Pudsey returned to England in great triumph. Longchamp was absent from London, but he received an immediate check in the metropolis, where the Barons of the Exchequer refused to admit him on the bench. The accounts vary considerably as to the place where the two rivals came in contact. According to the most probable narrative, Pudsey hastened after Longchamp, who was proceeding through Lincoln towards York upon the before mentioned errand. Bishop Longchamp received his coadjutor or competitor with much apparent courtesy. He would most willingly, he said, obey the King's commands, and surrender his authority. — And, would Bishop Pudsey please to meet him that day se'nnight in the Castle of Tickhill? — Pudsey, with singular simplicity, assented to this proposal, and entered the Castle. To these secular powers, were added the vast ecclesiastical authority which he derived from his legatine commission. He is represented as tyrannizing equally over clergy and laity, confounding right and wrong, offending and oppressing the whole community by his insolence and rapacity. "Had he continued in office,"—said his enemies,—"the kingdom would have been "wholly exhausted, not a girdle would have "remained to the man, nor a bracelet to "the woman, nor a ring to the knight, nor "a gem to the jew."—Most violent dissensions arose between the Chief Justiciar on the one part, and Earl John and the Magnates on the other part: and they addressed a letter to Richard, who was then on his voyage to Palestine, declaring the fearful mischiefs which the Justiciar was occasioning to King and Kingdom. But, before we admit the truth of these accusations, we must pause. The Justiciar steadily opposed and counteracted the pretensions of John, who was endeavouring to secure his succession to the throne; and we may suspect that a portion, and probably no small portion, of Longchamp' unpopularity arose from his opposition to powerful, and ultimately prevailing, part In order to increase his influence, as it said, he was a munificent patron of th species of talent, by which, in rude age public opinion was guided or delude Minstrels, Trouveurs, and Joculators, once poets, actors, buffoons, and beggar were paid, courted, and rewarded by hin and the market-places resounded with tl venal strains recounting the Bishop's fan and praise.—Had these rhymes alone su vived, how different would have been tl tale.

April 1191. The Archbishop of Rouen and the other Justiciars, bearing these letters, arrived in England for the purpose of exercising the powers confided to them. Such was the apprehension excited by Longchamp's influence and tyranny, at least according to the representations of his detractors, that the Commissioners did not dare to disclose the authority which they possessed. But the Chroniclers opposed to Longchamp conceal the important fact, that Richard, immediately before he set sail from Messina, issued his letters patent, addressed to his subjects, taking leave of them, now that he was entering upon the perils of the crusade; and especially requiring all persons to obey the authority of Longchamp, whom he mentioned with the

Justiciar, held the Chancellorship. One of the seals, the seal appointed to remain in England, was delivered to him for the execution of the King's commands, and he was moreover entrusted with the custody of the Tower of London. Longchamp's character was one of singular activity, which displayed itself in every branch of its administration. We owe the Tower Ditch to the Chief Justiciar:

it was the first act of his administration upon his return to England: but he had more skill as a politician than as an engineer, for he supposed that the river Thames would keep the excavation constantly full. Soon after Easter, he proceeded to York with a great body of troops, for the purpose of punishing the offenders who had massacred the Jews; but he engaged at the same time in a conflict with the Canons of the Cathedral. They contumaciously resisted Longchamp's legatine powers; and according to the notions of the age, they put the greatest possible affront upon him: — they would neither meet him in procession nor ring the bells. —The Justiciar, Chancellor, and Legate returned the affront in kind. By his command, the obstinate bells, which had refused to greet him, were unhung and placed on the floor of the belfry: and he kept the Clergy under an interdict, until, however reluctantly they acknowledged his authority.

June 1190. It was agreed in Council, that Pudsey should act as Justiciar for so much of the antient kingdom of Northumbria as remained to England: from the Humber to the dominions of the King of Scotland, and from sea to sea. The Bishop of Durham when Chief Justiciar, had resided and exercised his jurisdiction principally in the North: and, even with this contract greatest honour. And, any how, it appears that the Archbishop of Rouen remained idle and unoccupied until the domestic revolution, by which the Justiciar was overwhelmed.

July 1191. § XXVIII. Longchamp, supported as he was by Richard's influence, easily obtained a renewal of his legatine authority from Pope Celestine, the successor of Clement: and he acted on all occasions as a strenuous asserter of the King's rights. Gerard de Camville, a factious and turbulent Baron, claimed the custody of Lincoln Castle, either under a purchase from the King or in right of his wife, Nichola, together with the Shrievalty of the County. Raising a great army, the Justiciar besieged the castle, and summoned Camville, who had already been deprived of the bailiwick, to surrender the fortress which he held.

B. Abbas, 641, 693. Hoveden, 700. Neubrigensis, 398. R. Divisiensis.

As soon as it was certainly known by John, that his brother had actually departed from Sicily, he assumed the port and station belonging to an heir apparent who is entering upon his inheritance. Great movements took place in the country. The Barons addressed private letters to the Clergy and people, exciting them against the Justiciar. Camville did homage for his castle to John, who directed him to hold out against the Justiciar, — or in other words, against the King — and also instantly attacked the royal Castles of Nottingham and Tickhill, and took them both after a short siege of two days. And — "unless you forthwith raise the siege of "Lincoln, and allow Gerard de Camville "to hold his Shrievalty in peace,"— was the tenor of John's message to the Justiciar, "I will forthwith come against you with a "force which you can in no wise resist "or repel."

§ XXIX. Longchamp convened the leading men and chiefs of the King's army. "Believe me not,"—said he,—"if "this man is not seeking the government. "His demands are beyond all bounds. "They would be unreasonable even if he "were half King, he and Richard wear- "ing the crown every other year."—But he was not supported, and being compelled to yield, a truce was concluded between the contending parties. On the Bishop's part, the negotiators were the Earls of Warrenne, Arundel, and Clare, and eight others. On the part of Earl John, Stephen Ridel his Chancellor, William de Wendewall, Reginald de Wasseville, and seven others. The instrument itself is preserved; but there is a notice of another document, perhaps a preliminary agreement, rather differing in import. John Earl of Moreton surrenders the possession of the Castles of Nottingham and Tickhill, the first to be held by William Mareschall, and the latter by William de Wendewall, who were to keep the fortresses in the King's fealty until he should return from Palestine; but, should he die during his Pilgrimage, then they were to be restored to the Earl of Moreton. Other castles were in like manner delivered to various Bishops and Barons, upon the same trusts.

It was agreed that Bishops, Abbots, Earls, Barons, Vavassors, or Freeholders, should not be disseised of their lands or chattels at the pleasure of the Justiciars or Ministers of the King, but that they should be dealt with by the judgment of the King's Court, according to the lawful Customs and Assizes of the Kingdom, or by the King's command. In this passage, the "King's command" must probably be intended as his lawful command signified in due form. With respect to Gerard de Camville, it was also agreed, that he should be reseised of his Sheriffdom, and a day was given to him to appear in the Curia Regis to stand to the judgment thereof: and,— if it can be shown against him by the judgment of the Curia Regis that he ought to lose his bailiwick, then let him lose it, otherwise let him keep the same. — These clauses are of considerable importance in relation to the jurisdiction of the Court, and its legal authority; and other stipulations were added for better carrying them into effect. At the same time, a concession of very much greater importance was obtained or extorted from the Justiciar. By his advice, Richard had appointed Arthur as his heir and successor. But this settlement was now set aside: and, Longchamp, directing the act, the Earls and "Primates" of the Kingdom took the oath of fealty to John, acknowledging him, should Richard die without issue, as heir to the Throne.

§ XXX. New causes of disturbance soon arose. Geoffry, Archbishop elect of York, the son of Henry by fair Rosamond, had been banished from the Kingdom, a sentence well and truly earned by his turbulence and disaffection. He was now preparing to return. The whole board of Justiciars enjoined him not to land, and the Chief, fairly acting in the exercise of his authority, and issuing a legal writ or precept, commanded the Sheriff to arrest Geoffry should the injunction be con-

Sept. 1191. temned. Geoffry, at the instigation of his brother John, despised the prohibition, and landed at Dover. The Archbishop took refuge in the monastery of Saint Martin. Longchamp's officers broke into the church where the Archbishop had just concluded mass. Clad in his sacerdotal vestments, he was seized by the officers, who literally dragged him through the streets, using much more violence than was needed, and treating him with unnecessary despite and contumely.

Indignities thus sustained by the Primate of England, offered a plausible reason for exerting the powers said to have been confided to the Justiciar's enemies. The Justiciar did not attempt to palliate the proceedings which attended the Archbishop's arrest. He had not directed them; and the Constable of Dover, acting as is often done on similar emergencies, thought fit to understand much more from the warrant than was really intended. But these excuses availed him nothing. His foes had got him fast in the snare, and they were determined to effeect his fall. John and the Archbishop of Rouen, together with the other Justiciars, summoned Longchamp to make amends to the Archbishop of York, and to answer for his conduct before the Curia Regis. Longchamp attempted to put off the evil day, and evaded compliance. He was then peremptorily summoned to appear at a general Council held before John Earl of Moreton, at Loddon Bridge, between Reading and Windsor.

John was supported by almost all the Bishops, Earls, and Baronage of the Kingdom. They readily attended this great meeting, for which special writs had been issued by Earl John, in regular parliamentary form. The Chief Justiciar did not appear, nor any one on his behalf. Richard Biset, who adhered to Longchamp, brought him the news that John intended to seize the City of London. Some chroniclers state that John certainly was preparing to proceed to the City. Ricardus Divisiensis says, that this intelligence was erroneous. Whether true or false, Longchamp determined to preoccupy the station, and hastened to London, requiring the Citizens to close their gates against the Earl. But Geoffry, the Archbishop of York, was beforehand, and had egged on the Londoners to resistance: and when summoned by Longchamp, they declared that they would not obey a traitor and disturber of the public peace. Longchamp then took refuge in the Tower, which was closely blockaded by the Citizens both by land and by water.

As a portion of the Justiciar's history, it must be added, that when retreating to London, he fought a battle with John's supporters and adherents, who endeavoured to intercept him. In this conflict, Rogerus de 8 Oct. 1191. Planis, John's "Justiciar," was slain. John seems to have assumed a royal authority in the domains which he had received from Richard's bounty. So considerable were these possessions, that the title of Tetrarch is given to him by the chroniclers.

9 Oct. 1191. John, and Archbishop Walter, presided in the great Council held on the following day in St. Paul's Churchyard. It was like the Convocation at Loddon Bridge, in the nature of a Parliament. Here were convened all the Bishops, and Earls, and Barons, and the Citizens of London came in folkmoot and joined the assembly.

The Archbishop of Rouen and William Mareschall then first promulgated the King's letters patent, bearing date at Messina, and made the contents known to the people:—how the King had appointed the Archbishop of Rouen Justiciar, in the place of Longchamp, if the latter should commit any act in detriment of the Kingdom. The colleagues of the Justiciar all loudly asserted that he had despised their advice. Hugh de Nonant inveighed against him with the utmost bitterness. What the tenor of his discourse was, we may judge from the virulent letter in which he exults over Longchamp's fall. The charge of bad government was accepted and ratified by the acclamations of the multitude; "He shall "no longer domineer over us," exclaimed they. And—"having held our Council be-"fore all the people of the City, and in the "presence and with the approbation of the "Justiciars,"—it was decreed by John the King's brother, and by all the Bishops, Earls, Barons, and by the Citizens of London, that the Chief Justiciar should be deposed from the government of the Kingdom. Earl John was then proclaimed "Summus Rector totius Regni." This appointment was in no wise contemplated by King Richard's patents or commissions; and John, in the exercise of his authority, appointed the Archbishop of Rouen as Chief Justiciar under him, in conformity, though not in obedience, to the King's supposed commands.

Four Bishops and four Earls were deputed to convey the unwelcome intelligence to the Justiciar. He fainted on receiving the news, and dropped senseless on the floor.

The part taken by the Citizens of London in this transaction is very remarkable.

They appear as one community joining in the deliberations of another distinct community.

10 Oct. 1191. § XXXI. Very early in the morning of the following day, Earl John assembled his troops in the East Smithfield, the great open green plain near the Tower. The Bishop came out of the fortress to receive the propositions of his opponents. They would allow him to keep his Bishoprick, and the custody of three Royal Castles, Dover being one of them. It should seem that this offer was made in order to induce Longchamp to ratify Earl John's proceedings by a formal abdication of his office. This effect was not produced; he was firm in refusing his assent to any such arrangement. He refused to surrender any of the powers bestowed upon him by the King;—"But you are stronger than I am: and, "Chancellor and Justiciar, I yield to "force."—And thus speaking, he delivered up the keys of the Tower.

These transactions being concluded, Longchamp quitted the country, or rather escaped from it. His flight was, if we may credit his enemies, accompanied by circumstances of great disgrace and contumely. The Archbishop of York had his full revenge. Longchamp forthwith appealed to the Pope and complained to Richard, showing that John Earl of Moreton had deposed him from the government and ejected him from the Kingdom.

Celestine warmly espoused Longchamp's cause, intimating that his appointment had never been revoked by Richard: and sentence of excommunication was denounced against all those who had usurped the authority of the Chief Justiciar. The anathema was wholly unnoticed. Not a Bishop would obey the commands either of Pope or Ex-legate. And the Archbishop of Rouen and the other Justiciars placed a sequestration upon the temporalities of Longchamp's bishoprick, receiving the revenues in the King's name, in compensation, as it was alleged, of the royal treasures which he was accused of having dissipated or purloined. When he was expelled, nought was found in the Treasury, — said they, — save the empty chests and the keys.

1192. Longchamp offered to account for every farthing which had come to his hands; and he constantly maintained that the King never assented to his removal. In spite of the letters patent in Richard's name, and under Richard's seal, he asserted that the mandate was of no effect. More faith, — he said, — must be given to the King's own words, spoken by his own lips, than to a scrap of parchment. Strange as it may seem, this mode of reasoning was grounded upon law. It was admitted as a principle, that if oral declarations came in conflict with written instruments, the former had the more binding authority. When two parties came before the Court, the one claiming according to the King's verbal declaration, and the other by virtue of the King's Charter, a solemn judgment was given in favour of the former, upon the express ground that the King's intentions, testified by his own mouth, must prevail.

Richard himself, during his captivity, stultified, if such an expression can be used, his own letters patent in general. In a writ or letter addressed to the then Justiciar, he directs that no faith be given to any instrument issued in his name, though produced by a messenger coming directly from him, unless the same be to his honour and profit. Richard was beset with applicants and suitors, and, in order to rid himself of their importunities, he appears to have adopted this ingenious plan of granting what was asked, with a secret defeazance, annulling whatever grant or promise it might not be convenient for him to observe. This conduct, subversive of all good faith, utterly prevents us from ascertaining whether any particular instrument was or was not issued by Richard, with the intent that it should be observed. Our uncertainty is increased by the knowledge that letters were repeatedly counterfeited in his name by his brothers. And it will always remain a problem, whether the documents under which Longchamp was removed, really expressed King Richard's intentions and pleasure.

Celestine continued Longchamp in the legatine authority, which he states was expressly granted at Richard's earnest request. The King did not withdraw his confidence from his Chancellor. And, having propitiated Eleanor by large gifts and larger promises, Longchamp made an offer or bidding to John for repurchasing the station of Justiciar.

The sum proffered is stated by one writer to have been five hundred pounds, another makes it fifty thousand marks. In these accounts there is evidently some mistake or perhaps exaggeration. But Eleanor and John were induced and moved to take the proposal into grave and serious consideration. Forgetting past dissensions, and willing to serve their purposes by setting up Longchamp, both the Queen Dowager and the Earl, laboured much with the Archbishop of Rouen for the purpose of persuading him and the other Magnates to reinstate the Legate in his former station of Justiciar. Amongst other reasons, they urged that it would much displease the King, to know how Longchamp had been thus displaced from the government of the Kingdom without his command. A strange assertion this, in the face of the letters patent by which John and his partizans had effected Longchamp's expulsion, but entirely conformable to Longchamp's declarations: and confirmed, indeed, by what is stated, that Richard's determination to return to England was accelerated by the intelligence of Longchamp's removal. Taken any way, such an argument is a strong exemplification of the prevailing want of truth and principle.

Of John's exertions on behalf of Longchamp, one example is narrated with amusing particularity. A Council or, as we should call it, a Parliament, being assembled at London, the messenger of Longchamp, Legate and Chancellor, suddenly entered, announcing the arrival of his master at Dover. Alarmed at such intelligence, they forthwith send to Earl John, who is at Wallingford. Another Council is held. In this, John informs them that Longchamp defies them all, provided he can obtain his, John's, protection, for which he offers seven hundred pounds, to be paid within a week.

"I am in want of money,"—continued Earl John,—"a word to the wise is enough." And having thus spoken, he departed, leaving them to consider this pithy monition. Anxious to prevent the return of their hated enemy, they agreed to buy John off, by lending him five hundred pounds from the King's treasury. The Earl forthwith withdrew his proposition in favour of Longchamp. Eleanor equally abandoned the late Justiciar's cause: and letters were addressed to him in the name of the Queen, the Clergy, and the people, insisting upon his immediate departure from the Realm.

1191 to 1193. § XXXII. Walter Archbishop of Rouen, who now governed the kingdom as principal Justiciar, but under John and by his appointment, conducted himself mildly and conscientiously, refusing all bribes,—a rare instance of virtue,—and deciding equitably and according to law. Eleanor appears to have been associated to the Archbishop. In Richard's letter, dated at Hagenau, he addresses her and the Justiciars. She appears active on various important occasions, such as in the different measures required for the preservation of the King's peace. And certain pleas are recorded on the Rolls, to have been held before her and before the Archbishop as Justiciar. Thus we find that Sarah de Bonneville, wounded and robbed by the armed offenders, who, instigated by her daughter-in-law Constantia, had attacked her in her dwelling, first preferred her appeal before the Queen and the Archbishop of Rouen. A short incidental notice of her authority appears on another appeal. In a curious chirograph or agreement, made in the Curia Regis in the Exchequer, the Archbishop, described as Justiciar of England, appears sitting below John Earl of Moreton and above the Treasurer and Barons. John took his place in court as Governor of the Kingdom: and which station he probably retained until his open rupture with Richard, when, having quitted England, he became the sworn liegeman of the French King. Sept. 1193. § XXXIII. When the terms and conditions of Richard's ransom were settled, but before his actual liberation, he commanded that Eleanor and the Archbishop of Rouen should repair to him in Germany, and the Chief Justiciarship was bestowed upon Hubert, Archbishop of Canterbury. Hoveden, 732. Gervasius, 1582. Blomfield' Norfolk, iv. 87. Spelman's Icenia, 14 Monastic vi. 899.

Hubert Walter, lately advanced from the see of Salisbury to the archiepiscopal dignity, had been educated in the house and under the guardianship of Ralph de Glanville. Hubert was equally indebted to the (Note F.)

care of Bertha, the wife of Glanville. He testified his affection for his foster parents, and endeavoured to repay their kindness, by attributing to them, when he founded the Abbey of Dereham, the merit of the good work, thus performed. And the pupil of the legal writer, to whom we owe our first text book, appears to have been fully fitted by his acquirements for the station which he filled.

But the Archbishop's clerical dignity was considered, and not unjustly, as a disqualification. There were many who thought, that the employment of the Clergy in secular affairs, was equally contrary to the discipline and to the best interests of the Church. When Roger, the good Bishop of Salisbury, was much urged by Henry II. to accept the onerous duties of Chief Justiciar, he long hesitated, and would not enter upon the office; until, being sanctioned by his successive Metropolitans, and authorized by the Holy See, the scruples which he entertained were silenced or removed. (Note G.)

§ XXXIV. Against the appointment of Hubert, the strongest opposition was raised. Almost all the Magnates, as well as Richard's most intimate counsellors, protested against entrusting unto the Archbishop the administration of the Kingdom.

Hoveden, 743, 746, 754, 755. R. de Diceto, 682.

Richard, from whose letters this information is collected, stood firm in his choice, and retained his minister; but the dissatisfaction, though silenced, was not removed.

Hubert never appears to have neglected his duties as Justiciar. Complaints were preferred by the Canons of York against their Archbishop, the overbearing Geoffry Plantagenet. Hubert forthwith dispatched Justices to York, namely, Roger Bigod, William de Warenna, William de Stuteville, Hugh Bardolf, William Briwere, Geoffry Haket, and William Fitz Richard. The Court was held at York, and it was ordered that the Archbishop's retainers, accused of robbery or violence, should be attached and imprisoned. The Archbishop was next summoned to abide the law, and as he failed to appear, the Justices seized all his possessions, with the single exception of the Manor of Rippon, to which he retired.

March and April 1195.

It appears to have been part of Richard's policy, that the Chief Justiciar should be the acknowledged and unquestioned superior of all classes, both in Church and State. And Richard now petitioned Pope Celestine to invest Hubert with the legatine authority throughout the Realm of England. Celestine issued the Bull, stating the King's request, and granting the most ample faculties to the Justiciar. In the capacity of Legate, he visited the Archdiocese of York. The Officials of the Northern Primate, and the Canons of the Cathedral, submitted to his functions as derived from St. Peter's successor, but they carefully protested against any supremacy which he might claim as Archbishop of Canterbury. He entered upon his visita-

On the following day he presided in his Court Christian, where he judged ecclesiastical causes, whilst his "ministers" or deputies held a Court for Pleas of the Crown, and also for Assizes of Mort Dauncester and Novel Disseizin. These proceedings show the great extent of the power possessed by the Chief Justiciar, in deputing the jurisdiction bestowed upon him by the Crown.

1194, 1195. § XXXV. To this period of Hubert's administration belongs the first of the Rolls now published, containing the proceedings of Michaelmas Term, 6 Richard I. (p. 1 to 137), and in which there are repeated references to his authority as Justiciar — days given to parties—record made by him of the King's oral declarations—pleas heard and judgments pronounced— and writs issued by his command. In these entries, he is generally designated either as "Dominus Archiepiscopus" or "Dominus Cant'." From the similarity between the letters t and c in the record, the word "Can*t*'" has, in the extracts heretofore made from these Rolls, been transcribed as "Can*c*'"; so that, supposing any legal hypothesis had been grounded upon the printed text, the enquirer would have inevitably transferred the Justiciar's authority to the Chancellor.

The policy of the reign of Cœur de Lion is of no import, except to the historian or the antiquary. But it may be here remarked, that an error, exactly of the same description, probably contributed to establish the authority of arrest and detention exercised by the members of the Privy Council. In a case arising out of their supposed jurisdiction, a document was produced, which, any person moderately acquainted with records, would, I think, have expounded as evidencing a committal "per d*n*os de Concilio." The Court admitted the reading, "per d*u*os "de Consilio;" and the ambiguous form of a letter, vested in any two individual members, whose signatures could be obtained, the power which, according to the antient constitution, belonged to the Lords of the Council sitting in their corporate capacity, and as a tribunal.

§ XXXVI. To the Justiciar, the laity rendered but a sulky submission: and the jealousy excited by his legatine functions, put him out of favour with his own order. Hubert was also warmly engaged in a domestic quarrel. He was labouring to abrogate the Capitular rights of his Monks, and perhaps to eject them altogether from the Cathedral monastery. At this juncture, occurred the rebellion and death of William Fitz Osbert. Hubert's violation of the immunities of the Sanctuary of Saint Mary le Bow, his own Peculiar, excited the most grievous indignation of the Monks. They urged, that whilst enforcing the royal authority, he was nevertheless bound to respect the privileges of the Church; and all communication between them and their Pastor was at an end.

1196. Hubert became anxious to resign his station, alleging that he felt himself unable to suffice for the whole civil and ecclesiastical administration of the Kingdom. Richard, at first, would not accept this resignation. No one was ever found like unto Hubert in the preservation of the King's rights and the administration of the law. But at length Richard yielded, and allowed the Justiciar to retire. Hoveden, 767. Gervasius, 1597, 1614.

When Hubert had obtained this permission, then he suddenly repented him of the intention which he had formed, and of the petition which he had urged. Hubert made up his accounts. It appeared that in the short space of two years, he had raised for the King's use the sum of one million one hundred thousand marks, — a statement which, if at all approaching to the truth, fully accounts for the discontent excited by his administration, — and he offered to continue to serve the King. The proposal was gladly accepted by Richard, and Hubert retained his office; exercising, in direct contradiction to the duties of his sacred functions and his clerical vows, not merely civil, but military, authority. A predatory, yet formidable incursion of the Welsh, which threatened desolation to the Marches, was instantly checked by the rapidity of his movements. And amongst other instances of his skill as a commander, is the second battle, in which five thousand Welshmen fell in conflict with the army raised and led on by Hubert, the Papal Legate, the Archbishop, and the Chief Justiciar.

1198. § XXXVII. But the Monks of Canterbury were indefatigable in their opposition. They had dispatched agents to Rome for the purpose of carrying on the suit then pending between them and the Archbishop, concerning the collegiate chapel founded at Lambeth, and by means of which, a prebendal Chapter would have obtained the rights hitherto vested in the Monks of the Cathedral. It was contrary to all ecclesiastical discipline,—they complained to the Pope,—that Hubert Archbishop of Canterbury should act as the King's Justiciar, sitting as a judge upon criminals condemned to capital punishment, and be so entirely wrapped up and engrossed in secular affairs, that all his ecclesiastical duties were neglected and cast aside.— They concluded their charges against the Archbishop by declaring to the Pope, how, contrary to all the privileges and immunities of Holy Church, he had violated the Sanctuary of St. Mary le Bow, from whence William with the Long Beard was forcibly taken, condemned to death, and hanged on the tree.

Gervasius, 1614. Hoveden, 779. M.Paris, 193

The Pope received the accusation, and admitted its relevancy. Addressing Richard, he exhorted him, as he tendered his soul's health, to remove the Archbishop from the Justiciarship: and furthermore, wholly to abstain thenceforth from employing any Prelate in secular affairs. A concurrent mandate was addressed to all the Prelates, strictly prohibiting them from meddling with employments so uncongenial to their station in the Church. The King obeyed: and Hubert Archbishop of Canterbury, being deposed from the Justiciarship or administration of the Kingdom, Geoffry Fitz Peter was appointed in his stead.

August, 1198.

§ XXXVIII. The new Justiciar had long been familiar with the duties of the judicial station. Immediately upon his appointment, we find him issuing writs to the Convent of Canterbury. The military talents of the "Proto-Justiciarius Angliæ" were exerted against the Welsh. And, leading a powerful army against the restless Gwenwynwyn, who had besieged the garrison placed by William de Brause in Maud's Castle, he entirely defeated the Cymric army. Three thousand seven hundred of the enemy are said to have been killed in the conflict; and the single Englishman who was slain, fell, not by the arms of the enemy, but by the erring shaft of a fellow soldier.

§ XXXIX. A strange ballad or roundelay had obtained currency, no one knew how, in Normandy. Its burthen, as sung by the Norman damsels, purported, that in the Limousin the arrow was making by which the Tyrant would die. Whether these shadows cast before the event, arose from the wishes of the people, or indicated any organized conspiracy, must for ever remain uncertain. But the reign of Richard was fast approaching to its conclusion. According to Hoveden, Richard expired on Tuesday next before Palm Sunday, viz., the eighth of the ides of April. Gervase, Radulphus de Diceto, and most of the other authorities agree in this date: yet all our recent histories of England have failed to notice, that, although the chroniclers coincide as to the time of Richard's demise, there are the most singular discrepancies and contradictions respecting the circumstances by which his death was attended.

D. vii.) Tyrell's History of England.

Hoveden, who has been usually followed, relates the well-known story, how Richard besieged the Castle of Chaluz, in order to win the treasure, which the Viscount of Limoges withheld: and how he was slain by the arrow of Bertram de Gurdun, who, after Richard's demise, perished as a victim to the savage vengeance of Marcadeus, the leader of the Brabantine mercenaries. But a chronicle, compiled by a nameless Canon of Lanercost, and which generally follows Hoveden, states that Richard required, not the treasure, but the surrender of the Knight by whom the treasure had been discovered; and who, fearing the King's severity, had taken refuge in the Castle.

Ralph de Diceto, a most trusty and accurate testimony, was not acquainted with the history of the treasure, and commemorates Peter Basil—and not Bertram de Gurdun—as the soldier by whose arrow Richard was stricken. And the chronicle of Dunstaple, the Annals of Margan, Matthew Paris (or rather Roger Wendover), and Walsingham, relating the story of the treasure, all designate the same Peter Basil as the youth by whom the quarrell was discharged.

The manuscript chronicle of Winchester agrees with the last preceding authorities in naming Peter Basil as the man, but differs from them by ascribing to this individual the unhappy fate of Bertram de Gurdun, and yet with a variation. Marcadeus surrendered the prisoner to Richard's sister Joan, Countess of St. Giles, and she, and not Marcadeus, plucked out his eyes, and caused him to suffer other horrible mutilations and tortures, under which he expired.

The anonymous continuator of Geoffry, the Prior of Vigeois, a Limoisin Monastery, places two knights, Peter Bru (perhaps Brun) and Peter Basil, in the tower from whence the missile proceeded: and adds, that as it was reported,—a report which he repeats without positively adopting it,—Peter Basil was the marksman.

Ralph Coggeshale ascribes the "private war" waged by Richard against the Viscount of Limoges, to the alliance which the latter had contracted with the French King. Relating all the circumstances of Richard's death, the time of the day, the habit and equipment of the King, his attitude when he received the fatal stroke, his words and actions under the infliction, this able and accurate writer omits the name of the Soldier, designating him simply as "qui-"dam armatus." Whilst inveighing with the utmost vehemence against the "most "impious Marcadeus," the names of Bertram de Gurdun and of Peter Basil were unknown to him; and he is equally ignorant of the vengeance taken either by Marcadeus or by the Countess. But, as a compensation for this omission, Reinier of Liege represents the whole garrison as expiring in the most cruel torments.

The attention of Gervase of Canterbury was most especially directed to the particulars of Richard's death.—It was a judgment, as Richard acknowledged, for the vexations inflicted by him on the Church of Canterbury, — a confession carefully recorded by the chronicler. And the intelligence was brought to the Convent by a Monk, who, having been dispatched to Richard, became acquainted with the news when on his road, apparently in Normandy; upon which he immediately turned back and hastened to Canterbury. — And what was the intelligence thus conveyed by him?— Richard had laid siege to Nantru and not to Chaluz, a Castle belonging to the Count of Engoulême and not to the Viscount of Limoges. The want of provisions reduced the garrison to the greatest streight, and they offered to surrender at the King's mercy, their lives only being saved. Richard refused these terms. The inmates of the fortress were driven to despair. Now there was a youth, — neither Bertram de Gurdun nor Peter Basil, — but a third, hitherto unmentioned, John Sabraz,—who, standing on the Castle wall, shot off a quarrell, quite at a venture, yet in the earnest hope that, by its stroke, the besieged might be delivered from the oppression of their enemies. Richard was so near, that he heard the snap of the crossbow, and stooping his head to avoid the shot, the weapon hit him in his left shoulder, inflicting a mortal wound.

Walter of Hemingford, who is quoted by Bromton under the name of Walter the Canon of Gisburne, relates a story which departs widely from the preceding narratives of Richard's death, discrepant as they are amongst themselves. He transfers the scene from Chaluz in the Limousin to Chateau Galliard in Normandy. The females, employed as the laundresses of the garrison, were accustomed to come out by a postern gate which opened upon the water. The troops of the King of France, who had prepared an ambush, surprized the fortress through this entry, and won the Castle. Richard returned, burning with indignation; and, taking his station in the town of Andelys, he from time to time rode round and espied the fortress. A nameless arblaster,—whether Bertram de Gurdun, or Peter Basil, or John Sabraz, or any of them, we cannot tell,—who recognized the Monarch, discharged a shaft at him, and inflicted the wound of which he died.

The very curious English Chronicle of London tells us, that "the Kyng was "sclayne atte the Castle Gayllarde in "Fraunce, with schot of a venemed quar-"rell in the heed." The metrical romance, which commemorates the geste of Cœur de Lion, adopts the same version of the tale:

> King Richard reyned here
> No more than but ten yere
> Sythe he was schot, alas!
> In Castle Gaylard there he was.

Peter Langtoft, saying that it was either Chalouns or Chateau Galliard, does not know whether it was one or the other:

> I wene it hate Chahalouns, or it hate Galiard
> Outhers the Castle or the town there smyten was Richard.

Lastly, we may observe that Alberic of Troisfontaines preserves a vestige of yet another authority, in which additional particulars of Richard's death, not in our English historians, were found. The very valuable chronicle of this Cistertian Monk consists almost wholly of excerpts from other writers, whom he generally quotes by name. Speaking of Richard as slain by the quarrell discharged from the crossbow of a certain esquire, he proceeds to extract a portion of the narrative of Hugh de Nigella, an author whose chronicle seems to have been lost. According to this story, whilst the smith was forging the arrow head, the passers-by, proceeding to a wake or fair, repeatedly saluted him with an " Heaven speed you."—Taking these greetings as an omen, he engraved a cross upon the metal: and with the weapon, thus marked for a special purpose, was Richard slain.

§ XL. As soon as "John Earl of Moreton" was informed that his brother the King had expired, he forthwith retained the soldier knights whom Richard had in his pay, and he promised large gifts unto them. Furthermore, the Earl forthwith dispatched Hubert Archbishop of Canterbury and William Mareschal to England, in order that they, together with Geoffry Fitz Peter and the other Barons of the Kingdom, might keep and preserve the peace. We know not exactly how long they were employed upon their journey: and it will be seen below, that there is some difficulty in fixing the period when Richard's demise was declared in this country. Earl John now proceeded to Chinon, seized his brother's treasure, and received possession of various castles. But in the meanwhile, the lieges of Mans and Anjou had proclaimed the young Arthur as their Sovereign. And John, in assertion of his claim to the succession, proceeded to punish the citizens of Mans for the support afforded by them to his competitor.

18 Apr. 1199. John Earl of Moreton, returning from Mans, arrived at Beaufort in Anjou on Easter Day, and there he celebrated the Paschal festival. Thence he advanced to Rouen, where he was received without opposition. And, on Sunday the octaves of 25 Apr. 1199. Easter, being the feast of St. Mark the Evangelist, he was solemnly inaugurated in the Metropolitan Church of Rouen: and girt with the sword of the Duchy by the hands of Archbishop Walter, who also placed upon his head the golden coronal.

A report of King Richard's death is 17 Apr. 1199. said to have spread to England on Easter Eve, perhaps an echo of the vague and ominous rumours floating in Normandy, at once false and true. Hubert

Archbishop of Canterbury and William Mareschal, as soon as they arrived, whenever that may have been, used their utmost endeavours to fulfil their commission for the conservancy of the peace. And they required all the lieges of the Kingdom, "as well of the Cities as of the Burghs," and all the Earls, Barons, and Freeholders, that they should be in the fealty, and keep the peace of "John Duke of Normandy, "son of King Henry, son of the Empress "Matilda," against all men.

But the more powerful classes did not yield a ready compliance, and seemed disposed to refuse this acknowledgment to the "Duke of Normandy." Bishops, Earls, and Barons, all who had castles, filled these strong-holds with soldiers, preparing themselves for offence and for defence, laying in stock and store of victual and of arms. By others, great devastations were committed. A King's death was the usual signal for the general disorganization of the community: and until another was established upon his throne, no protection could be found in the law.

Geoffry Fitz Peter and his associates, Archbishop Hubert and William Mareschal, acted with quickness and decision. Assembling at Northampton, they called before them those great men whose fidelity was most doubted, David brother of the King of Scots, Richard Earl of Clare, Ralph Earl of Chester, Waleram Earl of Warwick, Roger Constable of Chester, William de Moubray, and many other Earls and Barons. The Baronage received a promise from the Justiciars, that "John Duke of "Normandy" would render every man his right, if they on their parts would keep their fealty and peace towards him. Upon this satisfactory covenant, the Earls and Barons swore fealty and faithful service to "John "Duke of Normandy" against all men.

25 & 26 May 1199. "John Duke of Normandy" landed at Shoreham on Tuesday the eighth of the calends of June. On the morrow, to wit the Eve of the Ascension, he repaired to London, for the purpose of being crowned. And all the Magnates, as well Bishops as Earls and Barons, being then and there assembled, "John Duke of "Normandy" was crowned and anointed King of England in the Church of St. Peter

And, on the day of his Coronation, King John girt William Mareschal with the sword of the Earldom of Strigoill, and Geoffry Fitz Peter with the sword of the Earldom of Essex, for although they already bore the title of Earls, and had the administration of their Earldoms, yet until now, they were not girt with the swords thereof. And on the same day, girt with swords, the Earl of Strigoill and the Earl of Essex served at the table of the King.

§ XLI. It will be observed that the leading narratives of Richard's death agree only in one material circumstance, namely, that a shaft discharged from a crossbow inflicted the mortal wound. Had the intelligence been communicated by any writ or letter, it is scarcely possible, that such variations in the statements concerning this important event, could be found in narratives so nearly contemporary. This uncertainty, is no equivocal token of the general confusion prevailing in the realm. Rot. Cur. Regis, vol. 259, 264.

More than three weeks from Richard's demise had elapsed, before the vacancy of the Throne was authoritatively acknowledged. This circumstance is proved by the Essoign 2 May 1199. roll of the Quinzaine of Easter, which is entitled as of the tenth year of Richard's reign, and entered on the sixth membrane of the record. It does not appear from any part of this roll that the death of Richard was yet recognized: and in fact we have evidence, nearly conclusive, to the contrary, for a day of appearance is given in a plea between the Prior of Durham, and the Abbot of Melsa, the Prior of Newburgh, and others, who had proceeded in a suit (probably in Court Christian) concerning an advowson, against the King's writ or command, "contra preceptum Domini Regis," which would not have been the usual style if speaking of a deceased Monarch. Are we to suppose that the intelligence had not yet reached England: — or that it had not arrived in so authentic a form as to warrant the Justices in proclaiming the event, which had already been more than once bruited, without any foundation excepting the wishes of those by whom it was desired: — or did the Justiciars purposely delay notifying that the inheritance was open, the better to secure the succession of the new Monarch?

§ XLII. The next or seventh membrane, has no heading or title either of date or reign. Here, we have an unquestionable proof that Richard's death was known to the Court. Robert Bertram casts his essoign "de ultra mare de servicio Domini Ducis," shewing that the entry was made after the inauguration of John as Duke of Normandy, and before his Coronation as King of England. But this membrane was made up before John's Coronation, inasmuch as it contains two essoigns "de servitio Ducis," one cast by Thomas de Estlee, and the other by Philippus Molendinarius.

Rot. Cur. Regis, vol. i. 220, 222, 224, 271, 272, 273, 274, 285, 288, 290.

The eighth membrane contains the essoigns "de malo veniendi," in three weeks of Easter, and which are continued in the eighth, ninth, and tenth membranes. In this portion of the roll we have several entries "de servitio Domini Ducis," respectively cast by Robert fitz Hervy, Gilbert de Mineres, Richard de Munfichet, Philip de Ounne or Ouue, Thomas Marin, and William de Warenna. But in the essoigns "de malo lecti" of the same date, and also on the ninth membrane, there are two entries noticing the King, one of lands "in manu Domini Regis," and another of a party "in misericordia Regis." These entries, however, are made upon a portion of the roll which seems to have been previously left blank, and the whole is much confused. It is therefore most probable that the heading was first written, and that these last entries were not actually put upon the roll until after John's Coronation.

§ XLIV. On the dorse of the first membrane of the Roll, are the essoigns of the Morrow of the Ascension, the feast itself being, as before mentioned, the day of John's Coronation. It is followed by the essoigns of the Morrow of the Trinity, the Octaves of the Trinity, the Quinzaine of the Trinity, the Octaves of St. John the Baptist, and the Quinzaine of St. John the Baptist, and upon these membranes, in all the entries referring to the Sovereign, he is duly and regularly denominated the King.

Rot. Cur. Regis, vol. i. 225.

28 May 1199.

§ XLV. The pleadings begin confusedly at the twelfth membrane of the Roll, and without any heading or title, or any date of day, term, or reign, but the first entries were clearly made before John's Coronation. Hillary de Rachenton has a day given to him on the Morrow of the Trinity, because he is in the Duke's Castle at Porchester. The assize of Novel Disseisin between Osbert Gifford, demandant, and Ralph de Wellinton, deforciant, is respited until the Octaves of the Trinity by the precept of Geoffry Fitz Peter, because Osbert is in the service of John, Lord of England, with horses and arms. A day is in like manner given, by command of Geoffry Fitz Peter, on the Morrow of the Trinity, in a plea of land between Robert Morin and the Abbot of Chertsey, because the said Robert went in the service of the Lord of England to Oxford. A day is given to William de Wrotham and the Prior of Lewisham and Theobald de Einesford, in a plea of land, on the Morrow of the Holy Trinity at Westminster, because the said William was in the service of the Lord of England. A day is given to Richard de Fescamp and Henry de Bechampton, in a plea of land, on the Morrow of the Trinity, on account of another party being in the Castle of the Lord of England.

Rot. Cur. Regis, vol. i. 305, 307, 309, 311.

§ XLVI. In the thirteenth membrane, which is without a date, the pleas continue. The first, is an entry that an assize of Novel Disseisin between Osbert Giffard, demandant, and Ralph de Wellinton, deforciant, is respited until the

Rot. Cur. Regis, vol. i. 313, 314, 323, 324, 325, 343, 349, 352, 361, 381.

Octaves of the Holy Trinity, by the command of Geoffry Fitz Peter, because the same Osbert is in the King's service with horses and arms. This is the same adjournment which is given on the preceding membrane, only substituting the title of King for the title of Lord. Possibly it may have been repeated after John's Coronation, upon a blank space previously left on the parchment; for, somewhat lower down on the membrane, a day is given to certain appellees, because they are in the service of the Duke.

On the fourteenth membrane, which is also without a date, it is recorded that John de Perteshall, having been in possession of a false or forged writ, took refuge in St. Clement's Church in Cambridge or Cambridgeshire, from whence he abjured the land of John Lord of England. This is followed by another entry, stating that all the lands and possessions of Ralph Giffard and Philip de Sumeri are put in peace by the writ of the Duke of Normandy, and that they should not be impleaded concerning any of their tenements, so long as they should be in the service of the Duke beyond the seas, such writ being tested by Geoffry Fitz Peter. And on the dorse of the same fourteenth membrane, is an entry stating that all the assizes appertaining to the Earl of Albemarle and his men, who were in the service of the Duke, are respited "sine die," so long as the Earl and his men shall be thus in the Duke's service beyond the sea.

The sixteenth membrane is likewise undated. This contains an entry that the plea between Godfrey de Sancto Martino and Waudrigesil de Curcellis, concerning the fee of William Mallett, was put in respite until it should be otherwise commanded, and this by the writ or precept of John Lord of England.

The seventeenth membrane is undated; and here the plea between Godfrey de Sancto Martino and Waudrigesil de Curcellis is again respited "sine die," until further orders should be given: and this, by the writ or command of the Duke. The plea between Robert de Stok' and William de Hengeford is stayed "sine die" until the arrival of the Duke in England, and this by the Duke's writ or precept.

The eighteenth membrane is undated. Roger de Brai demands against Hugh de Brai three acres of land in Laffelde, which he had pledged to Hugh, the father of the said Hugh, for a term then expired. Hugh denies the pledging, and says that he holds the land in fee. Roger thereupon offers to the Duke half a mark that he may have a jury of lawful men of the visne, whether the land be his fee, or whether it was pledged for a term; and, in the margin, this sum is repeated as an oblate or offer to the Duke.

The first plea roll which is dated, is of the Morrow of the Holy Trinity, on the twenty-first membrane; and from this place the entries proceed regularly, denominating the Sovereign as the King.

§ XLVII. It will have been observed how carefully and consistently the Chroniclers, whose language I transcribe, as well as the judicial records, abstain from bestowing the title of King upon John, until his Coronation. From that day his reign was reckoned, varying, however, in each year according to the moveable feast, which was taken as the anniversary; that is to say, the reign was calculated from Ascension day to Ascension day in each year, and not from and to the twenty-sixth day of May. This fact was first ascertained by a writer of distinguished eminence as an investigator of our historical antiquities, and noticed by him in two essays upon the English Constitution, inserted in a periodical publication. Observations to the same effect are also contained in an essay upon the sources of Anglo-Saxon history, in another periodical publication. Our modern historians and chronologers were previously accustomed to reckon the reign of John from the day of the death of his predecessor, so that all the instruments of his reign, dated between the sixth April and the Ascension day of the current year, have been transposed. Hume generally bestows a title upon John which never did or could belong to him, namely, that of "Prince." Had the original authorities been consulted and studied by this able writer, it is probable that his shrewdness might have enabled him to detect the error. But Hume's narrative of the earlier periods,—for to this portion only I limit my present observations,—frequently inaccurate, and always vague and superficial, labours under defects which no system of annotation can correct or remove. A professed and ostentatious enquirer after truth, this cool, acute, but inconsistent sceptic neglected ordinary diligence in the collection or examination of the evidence whereon his historical belief is founded.—And, taken as a whole; and whether judged with respect to research, or to spirit, or to tone, or to general tendency, it would be difficult to point out any one book, which, rotten at the core, has inflicted a more lasting injury upon our national literature.

Rotuli de Oblatis. Liber de Antiquis Legibus. Allen on the Prerogative, 47.—Review of Hallam's Middle Ages, Ed. Review, June 1818, vol. xxx. 166.—History of the English Legislature, Ed. Review, March 1821, vol. xxxv. 20. Quarterly Review, June 1826, vol. xxxiv. 297. Rise and Progress of English Commonwealth, vol. i. 308. Parliamentary Writs, (Chron. Abst.) i. 1. Hume's History.

The maxim of the French law, "le mort saisit le vif," and which we have adopted as a constitutional principle, was unknown to the English in the earlier periods of our history. The death of the father did not vest the royal title as an inheritance in the son:

and some further act was required before the style of King could be assumed. The rule of succession in the same blood or family, prevailed before the right of primogeniture was established as an indefeasible canon. Hence, until the Atheling was accepted by the "land-folk" or consecrated by the Priest,—and I here purposely avoid entering upon the difficult question, whether the popular acclamation or the sacerdotal ceremonial had the greater or the lesser constitutional efficacy,—no heir presumptive could be considered as King or Emperor, Bretwald or Basileus, in Anglo-Saxon Britain. After the Conquest, it is probable, for we can only speak doubtingly and hypothetically, that the heir obtained the Royal authority, at least for the purposes of administering the law, from the day that his peace was proclaimed. He was obeyed as Chief Magistrate, so soon as he was admitted to the high office of protector of the public tranquillity. But he was not honoured as the King, until the sacred oil had been poured upon him, and the crown set upon his head, and the sceptre grasped in his hand.

John did not enter into the receipt of the revenues of the Kingdom until after his Coronation, as appears from the Oblata Roll, the Treasurer beginning his accounts from the twenty-ninth day of May. We learn, however, from the judicial rolls, that, though not acknowledged as King, yet that the "Duke of Normandy" or the "Lord of England" possessed very many rights of sovereignty. And I am informed that some (Note H.) charters, recently discovered, prove that Richard, before his Coronation, equally exercised royal rights, though only assuming the style of Duke of Normandy and Lord of England. But, after the demise of Henry III., the royal title as well as the royal authority resulted from this recognition. Edward I. began his reign, to all intents and purposes, from the feast of St. Edmund the King, four days after the death of Henry III., when his peace was 20 Nov. 1272. proclaimed at Westminster, and he was (Note I.) thenceforth entitled King in all public documents.

Edward's accession was attended by some remarkable circumstances. Great dissensions prevailed at this period in London. There were two competitors for the office of Mayor, one elected, as of old, by the "Magnates," the other by the lesser Commons: and the King had interposed by appointing a Custos, until the settlement of the disputes between the contending parties. Henry III. was then on his deathbed, and the popular party proposed that, as soon as he should expire, they would rise against the Aldermen and plunder them of all their goods and chattels: under the impression that this could be done with impunity whilst the kingdom should be "without a King"— dum Regnum esset sine Rege.— But this —continues the writer of the Year Book of London, probably the Town Clerk, — was an erroneous opinion, for immediately upon the King's death the Kingdom devolved upon Dominus Edward his son.— And when — continues this writer—all the people should have done fealty to him, then it was certain that all who, being under his dominion, perpetrate any act against the peace, should be as grievously punished as under the dominion of his living father. And the lesser Commons were prevented from perpetrating this iniquity, because im-

17 Nov. 1272. mediately upon King Henry's death, "on the Morrow of Saint Edmund the Archbishop," the Earl of Gloucester, the Archbishop of York, and many other Nobles of the realm of England then present, came into the City and caused peace to be proclaimed towards all, both Jews and Christians.

From this proceeding, three important facts may be collected respecting the theory and practice of the Constitution in relation to regal succession, as prevailing when Henry III. closed his reign: I.—The people of London, more thoroughly an Anglo-Saxon community than any other then subsisting, and probably never merged in any

Anglo-Saxon Kingdom, though under the supremacy of the Basileus, retained a reminiscence of the era, when, upon the death of the Monarch, a complete inter-regnum ensued. II.—London was still so much of a distinct State, that proclamation of the King's peace in London did not extend to the rest of his Kingdom, so that there might be, as in this instance there was, two different periods for the formal acknowledgment of the Sovereign, the one arising from his recognition in the City, the other from his recognition in the rest of the Kingdom. And this explains an expression occasionally employed concerning the commencements of the reigns of the antient Kings, namely, that they are computed secundum usum Scaccarii, implying that there might be another usage elsewhere. According to our present practice, the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of London are invariably (Note K.) parties to the proclamation of a new King, being always required to concur in signing the act of recognition. And we may perhaps venture to conjecture that this custom was originally introduced for the purpose of consolidating the two recognitions, so as to have but one date of accession, for the City and for the Kingdom at large. III.—But although the proclamation of the peace was required to enable the Sovereign to exercise his lawful authority, for this position is clearly to be collected from narratives in the City Year Book: still the Crown descended by hereditary right to the eldest son: And by the proclamation alone, before the coronation, the Lord of England acquired the title of King.

This, certainly was a doctrine established subsequently to John's accession. The different branches of the government were making a symmetrical advance. Parliament was obtaining more influence: and at the same time, the Throne was acquiring greater stability.

But what was intended by the style of "Dominus Angliæ?"—This title appears to indicate the right to the superiority over the soil, when distinguished from the chieftainship of the people. The King might be admitted as Dominus Angliæ before he was acknowledged as Rex Anglorum: and this distinction was consistently maintained. John was Lord of Ireland, but he did not claim to be King of the Irish. Edward wrote himself Lord of Scotland, and acknowledged Balliol to be King of the Scots.

§ XLVIII. One of the works contemplated by Sir Simon D'Ewes was, "The "antiquity of the Municipal or Common law of the Realm before the Norman Conquest, out of records for the "greatest part, or other unvulgar materials;"—to this he intended to add a second part out of the "Itinerant and Plea "Rolls, chiefly remaining in the Treasury "at Westminster,"—or the muniments of which this present publication is composed. —"These,"—he continues,—"I have proposed to myself to labour in, besides divers "other smaller works, as well theological "as moral, like him that shoots at the Sun, "not in hopes to reach it, but to shoot as "high as possibly his strength, art, or skill "will permit. So, though I know it is "impossible to finish all these during my "short and uncertain life, having already "entred into the thirtieth year of my age, "and having many unavoidable imploy-"ments and cares of an estate and family, "yet if I can finish a little in each kind, it "may hereafter stir up some able judg-"ments to add an end to the whole, in "the same way and search I shall have "waded in before them. In the mean "time I shall always pray, as I do sin"cerely desire, that by all my endeavours "God may be glorified, the truth, divine "or human, vindicated, and the publick "benefited:

"Sic mihi contingat vivere, sicque mori."

Such remarks are too instructive to be omitted. They are the memorials of a period when the individuals most distinguished by knowledge, by learning, or by intellectual eminence, were impressed with the deep feeling of the duties resulting from the important station whereunto they had been called. Raised up as teachers, freely dispensing the gifts freely bestowed upon them, seeking neither present fame nor worldly profit, but acting under an humble responsibility for the faithful use of the talents entrusted to their stewardship. And indeed, these sentiments and principles will alone enable the inquirer to proceed steadily and cheerfully, in labours, which even humanly speaking, can never be ripened into harvest, until the hand that sowed the seed is mouldering in the grave. Pursued with any other motives, the dreary annals of literary history will warn him how little chance he has of escaping from the most bitter vexation, sorrow, or despair.

This instrument (also in the Treasury) is indented at the top, the word "Cirographum" being cut through by the indentation. A seal of green wax is appendant, much defaced, but apparently representing a castle or fortified town rising out of the water. Most of the names which follow after Robertus Ruffus are well known in the City archives: and they probably were the Magnates who proceeded in a body from the Court of Husting to the Court of Exchequer, for the purpose of attesting the agreement between the parties. Henry de Cornhulle was Sheriff 1 Ric. I., together with Richard Fitz Reiner, the brother of the parties; Henry Fitz Ailwin is the Mayor. William de Haverhulle was Sheriff 3 Ric. I., together with John Bocointe. Roger Fitz Aleyn was Mayor 16 John.

NOTES.

[A.] p. v.

The membranes of the Rolls are stitched or fastened together at the top of each skin. This appears to have been the custom of the Exchequer in all its branches, from the earliest periods. It is thus that the Pipe Rolls are made up, and all the Judicial Rolls. The same custom prevailed in the Exchequer of Normandy. But in the Chancery, the rolls were and still are made up by attaching the membranes end to end. The Lithographs I. II. III. will shew the difference between the hand-writing of the rolls, and of other coeval documents.

Hamond Brand was Sheriff in 1208.

The Bull granted by Pope Celestine for the restoration of the Monks is transcribed both by Hoveden and in the annals of Burton, and it speaks of Hugh Nonant as being then alive. The narrative of Matthew Paris, which is very circumstantial, ascribes the restoration of the Convent to Innocent III. his successor. Some few of the Monks, as he says, had repaired to Rome, for the purpose of inducing the Pope to restore the Monastery. There they lingered: some, wearied out by disappointment and poverty, quitted the Apostolic Court; others died: till at length only one remained, Brother Thomas, who, from extreme want, was often forced to beg his bread. About this time, Hugh de Nonant, being on his way to Rome, suddenly sickened when in Normandy. Conscious that his death was nigh, he sent for and wrote to the Clergy of the Province, entreating them to visit him on his death bed. Before them he confessed his sins. In particular he acknowledged, with great grief, how he had expelled the Monks of Coventry, warring against them with mortal hatred: and, earnestly entreating from the Abbot of Bec-Herlouin, that he might be clothed with the habit of that order which he had persecuted, he died.

Jan. & Feb. 1198 The removal of this powerful opponent gave courage to Brother Thomas, and when Pope Innocent, who had then lately been enthroned, was sitting in full consistory, he came before the Pontiff, and preferred his prayer for the restoration of the Monastery. "Know ye not, Brother,"— replied the Pope, with great wrath, "that my predecessors, Clement and Celestine, oft and oft rejected the same petition, aye, and I saw and heard them. Get along with you, get along with you, you wait in vain."— "Holy Father," — rejoined the Monk, —"I wait not in vain. My petition is just and right; and I wait for your death, even as I waited for the deaths of your predecessors. One may succeed you, who will effectually grant my prayer."— By this address the Pope was startled and scared, and after expressing his surprize to the Cardinals in somewhat unseemly language, he turned to the Monk, and said, "Brother, by St. Peter you shall not wait for my death, your petition is granted;" and before Pope Innocent again tasted food, he issued the Bull by which Archbishop Hubert was authorized to restore the Monastery.

Now as this statement is wholly inconsistent with the Bull, which is preserved textually and entire, we must either admit that the document is a forgery — and, at this period, the practice of fabricating spurious Bulls prevailed exceedingly — or that Matthew Paris, the Monk of St. Albans, was singularly deceived.

It is probable that Hubert was the ward of Glanville. He thus expresses himself on the Foundation Charter of West Dereham.— Omnibus Sanctæ Matris Ecclesiæ filiis, præsentibus et futuris, Hubertus Dei gratia, Eboracensis ecclesiæ Decanus, æternam in Domino salutem. Sapientis est hiis, quæ salute animæ proficiunt, dum potest, intendere et transitoriis æterna commutare. (Monasticon, vol. vi. 899.) —Geoffry Fitz Peter is one of the attesting witnesses to the Charter.

Diceto, 652. — The good Bishop was thus licensed by three consecutive Metropolitans, the Venerable Anselm, Ralph, and William de Corboyl. It therefore appears that he did not consider that the sanction given by the Archbishop for the time being, bound his successors.

The Bull granted by Pope Celestine for the restoration of the Monks, is transcribed both by Hoveden and in the annals of Burton, and it speaks of Hugh Nonant as being then alive. The narrative of Matthew Paris, which is very circumstantial, ascribes the restoration of the Convent to Innocent III. his successor. Some few of the Monks, as he says, had repaired to Rome, for the purpose of inducing the Pope to restore the Monastery. There they lingered: some, wearied out by disappointment and poverty, quitted the Apostolic Court; others died; till at length only one remained, Brother Thomas, who, from extreme want, was often forced to beg his bread. About this time, Hugh de Nonant, being on his way to Rome, suddenly sickened when in Normandy. Conscious that his death was nigh, he sent far and wide to the Clergy of the Province, entreating them to visit him on his death bed. Before them he confessed his sins. In particular he acknowledged, with great grief, how he had expelled the Monks of Coventry, warring against them with mortal hatred; and, earnestly entreating from the Abbot of Bec-Herlouin, that he might be clothed with the habit of that order which he had persecuted, he died.

Jan. & Feb. 1198. The removal of this powerful opponent gave courage to Brother Thomas, and when Pope Innocent, who had then lately been enthroned, was sitting in full consistory, he came before the Pontiff, and preferred his prayer for the restoration of the Monastery. "Know ye not, Brother,"—replied the Pope, with great wrath,—"that my predecessors, Clement and Celestine, oft and oft rejected the same petition, aye, and I saw and heard them. Get along with you, get along with you, you wait in vain."—"Holy Father,"—rejoined the Monk,—"I wait not in vain. My petition is just and right; and I wait for your death, even as I waited for the deaths of your predecessors. One may succeed you, who will effectually grant my prayer."—By this address the Pope was startled and scared, and after expressing his surprize to the Cardinals in somewhat unseemly language, he turned to the Monk, and said, "Brother, by St. Peter you shall not wait for my death, your petition is granted;" and before Pope Innocent again tasted food, he issued the Bull by which Archbishop Hubert was authorized to restore the Monastery.

Now as this statement is wholly inconsistent with the Bull, which is preserved textually and entire, we must either admit that the document is a forgery — and, at this period, the practice of fabricating spurious Bulls prevailed exceedingly — or that Matthew Paris, the Monk of St. Albans, was singularly deceived.

It is probable that Hubert was the ward of Glanville. He thus expresses himself on the Foundation Charter of West Dereham.— Omnibus Sanctæ Matris Ecclesiæ filiis, præsentibus et futuris, Hubertus Dei gratia, Eboracensis ecclesiæ Decanus, æternam in Domino salutem. Sapientis est hiis, quæ salute animæ proficiunt, dum potest, intendere et transitoriis æterna commutare. Quod quidem intelligentes . . . . . quoddam cœnobium Præmonstratensis Ordinis in feudo nostro, apud Derham fundavimus, pro salute animæ meæ, et patris et matris meæ, et Domini Ranulphi de Glanvillâ et Bertæ uxoris ejus qui nos nutrierunt. (Monasticon, vol. vi. 899.) —Geoffry Fitz Peter is one of the attesting witnesses to the Charter.

Diceto, 652. — The good Bishop was thus licensed by three consecutive Metropolitans, the Venerable Anselm, Ralph, and William de Corboyl. It therefore appears that he did not consider that the sanction given by the Archbishop for the time being, bound his successors.

[H.] p. xciv.

I am informed that the fact of Richard's having made royal grants before his Coronation, assuming the style of Ricardus Dux Normanniæ et Dominus Angliæ, appears from some Charters in the Archives of the Duchy of Lancaster, which have been recently brought to light by the exertions of Mr. William Hardy, an active officer on that establishment.

[I.] p. xciv.

See the Chronological Abstract of the First volume of the Parliamentary Writs, vol. i. In all regal tables, &c. the accession of Edward I. had previously been reckoned from the 16th November, the day of Henry's death.

[K.] p. xcvi.

The earliest proclamation which I have seen in the Registers of the Privy Council, is that which took place on the accession of Charles I. The King is accepted and proclaimed by the "Lords "Spiritual and Temporal of this Realm, being here assisted with "those of His late Majesty's Privy Council, together with num- "bers of others, principal Gentlemen of quality, with the Lord "Mayor, Aldermen, and Citizens of London." The proclamations were made at Whitehall, Charing Cross, Denmark House, Temple Bar, on the Middlesex side, and the Great Conduit in Fleet Street. When the Lords of the Council reached Ludgate, the gates were closed. The Lord Mayor and Aldermen, "in their "formalities," were within the gates. On being assured that King James was dead, they opened the gates, and the proclamation was made. The name of Sir John Gore, the Lord Mayor, appears as the first of the signatures. The proclamation employed, upon the accession of His present Majesty, is nearly word for word the same as that of Charles I.; but the Lord Mayor and Aldermen now attend, in the first instance, at the Palace, and sign the proclamation on the table. Upon the accession of William III. the proclamation was made by the "Lords Spiritual "and Temporal, and Commons, together with the Lord Mayor "and Citizens of London, and others of the Commons," omitting the Privy Council. In all other cases the precedent of the proclamation of Charles I. was followed.

See my Report, and the recommendation of the Committee who examined the original Rolls, (Cooper on Records, vol. ii. 18, 32, and vol. i. 241–243). An analysis of the Rolls, shewing the comparative number of folios, printed and unprinted, will be found in the same work (Cooper, vol. i. 306–401). This statement was not compiled by me, but I believe it to be correct.
